WILSON LANDS; GOES TO PARIS

LOCAL SEWAGE PLANT IS NOW FOUND DEFECTIVE

PLANT NOT BUILT AS PRESCRIBED

Bottoms of Basins Are to be Different Than Plans

SEWAGE INTO LAKE

Will Cost $20,000 to Bebuild the Sections, is Now Belief

Sensational charges to the effect that the sewage plant of the city of Madison was not built according to specifications and that sewage is going into Lake Monona because of that fact will probably be laid before the common council tonight. That the Lake Monona nuisance is due to this defect will be contended.

It is reported that during the past two months an independent investigation of the Lake Monona question has been conducted by the board of health and that they have discovered that the sewage plant was not built in the manner prescribed by the sanitary engineers who designed the plant.

It was expected today that the results of this investigation will be laid before the common council tonight.

That the bottom of the various basins forming nits in the sewage plant were built differently than the plans drawn has been found through a technical examination made. It was found that the pipes which are supposed to draw the solids from the bottoms of the basins have not been performing this function and that this matter has been going, to a large extent, through the filter beds and into the effluent, and then into the lake.

Madison people have bee nsteadily maintaining that the sewage plant was defective, but this charge has never received any support from the city hall. An engineer from the firm that designed the plant recently visited the city at the request of Mayor Sayle and he declared the trouble to be due to the action of the sun's heat on the algae in the lake.

It is estimated that it will cost about $20,000 to reconstruct the sewage plant according to the original plans.

MITCHELL DIVORCE CASE BEFORE JUDGE

Husband's Latest Offense is Alleged Disregard of Court Order

The Mitchell divorce case occupied the attention of Judge A. C. Hoppmann this morning. No definite action was taken.

Mitchell's latest offense is a charge of having disregarded the order of the court regarding his conduct with his wife. The consideration of this contempt motion will be resumed Saturday morning at 10.

Dist. Atty. Sauthoff declared that all of the separate actions in the case will now be merged in a single divorce suit in which he will present the claims of Mrs. Mitchell, plaintiff.

The couple was married Dec. 12, 1916, at Rockford. Immediately after they came to Madison to live. There are no children. Action for divorce was begun in Oct., 1917, and later in January of this year, on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment and drunkenness.

SOLDIER IS WITNESS IN BERGER TRIAL

Private Schiller Tells of Relations With Socialist Leaders

BULLETIN.

CHICAGO—Cross examination of the first government witness in the trial of Victor L. Berger and four other socialist leaders for conspiracy to violate the espionage act, took up many agles but was principally concerned with the memory of the soldier witness, Arnold Schiller.

Schiller told of several visits to Chicago socialist headquarters but denied that William F. Kruse and Adolph Germer had told him he was foolish and should hurry back to camp because he had overstayed his leave of absence. He admitted that he was known as a radical or "revolutionary red' in Young People's Socialist League circles and that he had called Kruse "yellow" because Kruse would not appoint a secret committee to oppose the draft.

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—When the trial of Congressman-Elect Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee and his co-defendants accused of conspiracy to subvert the espionage act, was resumed today, Pvt. Arnold Schiller continued his testimony regarding his relations with the defendants in efforts toward defeating the nation's war plans. The soldier is now in the depot brigade at Camp Grant.

Is a Chicagoan.

Pvt. Schiller is a Chicagoan, who worked for months in the headquarters of the national socialist party and said he was private secretary to Henry Basler, now in an internment camp and who is reputed to have admitted being a German secret service agent. The only witness thus far placed on the stand, the soldier told of plans to instill the anti-war spirit in soldiers in the army cantonments, of an "underground railway to Mexico" for deserters, of the operations of "a conscientious objectors' league," and of the existence of an organized conspiracy to oppose the conscription act and a code system for transmission of messages between the alleged plotters.

The witness said that before he reported for service W. F. Kruse asked him whether he would refuse to report for military service if others would also refuse. Discussing a visit to the office of Adolph Germer, national secretary of the socialist party, after his induction into the army, Schiller said:

"I had on my uniform and Mr. Germer jokingly remarked, 'has one of the 200,000 coffins the government has ordered been measured up for you?'"

Schiller described a motto of the girls of the Young People's Socialist league which reads: "That hand that holds a musket can never hold mine."

"Mr. Kruse showed the motto to me," he said, "and I saw it at Camp Yipsel, Fox Lake, Ill."

The witness said he was tried at Camp Grant for desertion, having been absent without leave for 13 days.

"I was found not guilty of desertion, but was reduced to the ranks and put on two-thirds pay for five months," he said.

A war picture entitled "The Realities of War," depicting the horrors of strife, was identified by the witness as having been on the walls of the socialist headquarters.

Excerpts from the Socialist Bulletin of June, 1917, which pamphlet the witness said was given to him in the presence of Victor L. Berger in the socialist headquarters were read by Mr. Fleming to the jury. One of the excerpts was labelled advertisement and read:

"Buy a Liberty bond. Get a real one. The bankers' bonds are slavery bonds and will bind you to Morgan's wheels. Buy a defense fund bond."

The Defense Fund

The defense fund, the article said, was needed by socialist young men and other objectors to war who were being inducted into the army.

The court room was again crowded, a large portion of the audience being women. One woman wore a

Senator Johnson Asks Queries On Russ Situation

WASHINGTON—Senator Hiram Johnson, in the senate yesterday, charged the government with breach of its promise not to participate in military intervention in Russia and propounded the following inquiries:

"Is it true that the soivet government offered to the American government a basis of cooperation, economic and military, and sought the help of the American government to prevent the ratification of the shameful treaty of Brest and that the American government never replied?

"Is it true that the assistant secretary of state, speaking for the president, definitely refused intervention in March last when, if intervention was ever desirable or possible, then was the time, before the rigors of starvation, the red terror, or the unity of the peasants and workers against the allies had been established?

"Is it true that the Russian soviet government offered, through its highest economic council, a program for making America the most favored foreign nation in trade and commerce and involving the control by the allies of all those supplies most desired by the central empires?

"Is it true that the department of state has refused to allow the American Red Cross to ship supplies to Moscow and Petrograd for the relief of the returning Russian war prisoners from Germany, these the soldiers who held the Hun in check for two years and saved civilization? Was this refusal based on Creel information and the fear that these supplies would be turned over by a starving people to Germany?

"Is it true that the American ambassador and the British high commissioner in Russia recommended cooperation with the soviet government through the American railroad mission, that the soviet government invited this cooperation, and that these recommendations were refused by the American government largely because of misinformation received through the Creel committee, supported by leaders and representatives of the old regime in Russia?

"Is it true that refusal of these recommendations prevented the evacuation of large amounts of war supplies from the western front that subsequently were captured by the Germans in their advance after the Brest negotiations had failed?

"Is it true that the British high commissioner, an official who had been seven years in Russia, after four months in Russia, stated over his signature that the soviet government had cooperated in aiding the allies and that he believed cooperation with the soviet government was feasible, as late as the 5th day of May, 1918?

"Is it true that the American government so delayed cooperation with the Kerensky's government's plan as to contribute largely to the overthrow of Kerensky and the success of the Bolshevik revolution?"

Senator Johnson charged the Creel committee with misrepresenting the Russian situation continually in order to bolster up its charges that the Bolsheviki were German agents.

Senator Lewis of Illinois made a brief reply to Senator Johnson, in which he insisted that the United States was drawn into intervention by reason of the anarchy prevailing in Russia.

Senator Sherman of Illinois interrupted to call attention to one of President Wilson's addresses in 1914, in which he declared the Mexican people had a perfect right to shed all the blood they pleased among themselves without interference from outside powers.

U. S. POLICY IN RUSSIA ATTACKED

Agreement With Japan Has Been Nullified is the Claim

U. S. "MISCALCULATED"

Future Policy in Russia Will be Discussed at Paris Meeting

Arthur Sears Henning, Washington correspondent writing in this morning's Chicago Tribune has the following to say:

"Coincidentally with an attack on President Wilson's Russian policy by Senator Johnson of California in the senate today it became known that the agreement between Japan and the United States covering intervention in Siberia has been nullified, so far as the number of troops in the expedition is concerned.

The agreement provided that the United States should send an expeditionary force of 7,500 men to guard allied suppies at Vladivostok, restore order, reopen the trans-Siberian railroad, and aid the Czecho-Slovaks who were fighting their way out of European Russia. The Japanese were also to dispatch a limited expeditionary force.

U. S. Milcalculated

Shortly after the American expedition arrived in Siberia the Japanese government presented to Washington a protest, stating that instead of 7,500 the United States had sent 9,500 men. An inquiry ensued, and the war department eventually explained that the excess of 2,000 men was due at a miscalculation of the number of men in the units dispatched.

Thereupon Japan took the position that in view of the violation of the agreement by the United States the Tokio government would not feel obligated to abide by the limitation of the expedition originally agreed upon and proceeded to reinforce her expedition to an extent not definitely known here but sufficiently to enable the Japanese to police large areas of Siberia.

Carried Out U. S. Promises

Moreover, it appears that the Japanese furnished a large part of the equipment and other supplies to the Czecho-Slovaks which had been promised by the United States but was not forthcoming. As a result of that miscarriage of plans in the war department, the quartermaster supplies ordered sent to the Czecho-Slovaks last August were not shipped for two months or more and have only within the last few weeks begun to reach Vladivostok.

In the meantime the Czecho Slovaks, unable to replenish their munitions, were compelled to fall back from the Volga front and would have retreated farther had it not been for the timely arrival of Japanese assistance.

To Be Discussed in Paris

Whether the United States will continue to maintain troops in Russia is to be determined by the president, after conference with the allied premiers, in Paris. The Bolshevik government has been endeavoring for several weeks to obtain an armistice, but its appeals have been ignored by the allies.

JUDGMENT ENTERED IN BIDDERSON CASE

Judgment was entered and execution issued in the case of James M. Bidderson against George F. Jacobs in a garnishment case heard in circuit court by Judge Stevens in which the Cruiser Motor company figured.

Bidderson had been promoting certain stock operations for the Cruiser company under the direction of Jacobs. Bidderson maintained that he was entitled to certain funds in connection with the work. A jury made the award recently.

The Capital Times: One Year Old Today

ONE YEAR AGO today The Capital Times made its bow to the people of Madison and Dane County.

In the initial issue of this paper on Dec. 13, 1917, the following statement was made:

"The Capital Times begins modestly but we believe that it will grow from day to day in the hearts of the people. It will aim to be a people's paper in that it will serve the people in their collective spirit with a truly democratic policy."

The Capital Times stands at the end of its first year more firmly resolved than ever to adhere to those principles and ambitions which were set forth in the first issue.

* * *

It is not necessary to recount here the obstacles and handicaps that were set up for this newspaper by interests in this community that were determined that this institution should not succeed. It has been a year in which our aims and purposes were maliciously misrepresented and consistently distorted.

In spite of these trials and handicaps which were placed in our way The Capital Times has endeavored to steer true to the course that we mapped out for ourselves. At that time we took the position that a newspaper that remains true to the common people must ultimately succeed despite any manipulations and machinations set up for it by wealth and privilege which thrive on the exploitation of the people.

* * *

We believe that the wisdom of this policy has been vindicated in the short time of one year.

Fighting under circumstances that at times were highly discouraging, we have seen the circulation of this newspaper grow to 8,500 in one year's time. We believe that that is the record of which we may justly feel proud. We have seen the influence of this paper extended from day to day. We have seen it grow in the confidence of the people.

The Capital Times will continue to grow just so long as it remains true to the people.

With that idea foremost at all times The Capital Times faces the future confident that the policy which it has pursued will bring further growth.

* * *

The Capital Times holds no bitterness or feeling for experiences of the past. Little as they may know it, our enemies have contributed no small part to the success of this paper. Just as a man is known by the enemies he makes so a newspaper gains confidence by the enemies it makes.

Our eyes are toward the future; in the future lies opportunity for work and for service.

One year ago today we set forth a statement explaining our aims and ambitions. That statement has been our guide for the past; it will be our guide for the future.

And so we print herewith our statement of a year ago. Here is what we said then and what we again say now:

"With this issue of THE CAPITAL TIMES the management greets its readers, one and all, in a spirit of open hearted friendship and good will.

"THE CAPITAL TIMES is, we believe, born of a real necessity. Madison is a rapidly growing city. Dane county is one of the great and prosperous counties of the state. These present an attractive field for a newspaper that will deal with the news and issues of the day in an intelligent and impartial manner.

"The city of Madison and Dane county possess a population of rare intelligence. The people here are progressive,—they desire to keep abreast of the times in all that makes for prosperity and better civic life.

"It is the desire of this paper to promote the interests of our city, county and state in a broad, liberal spirit. It has no enemies to punish; it has no special interests to serve. It is the organ of no man,—no set of men, no faction, no party. We shall endeavor to consider principles rather than men THE CAPITAL TIMES will be independent of political parties and is fully determined to hear all men, all parties, all interests,—fairly and honestly. It will always stand unwaveringly for good government in the city, county, state and nation.

"In making this announcement, we are not unmindful of the fact that the influence of newspapers has been on the wane in the last decade. People are becoming more and more skeptical of the honesty and integrity of American journalism. "You can't believe one-half of what you read in the papers" is becoming an all too common phrase in this country. This feeling has been engendered to a large extent by distortion of news, suppression of news, the injection of the personal views and prejudices of publishers into the news, and the misuse of newspapers in attacking and persecuting individuals and institutions unjustly and unfairly.

"In succeeding issues of THE CAPITAL TIMES we shall have more to say on this subject. Newspapers have for long trained the spotlight of publicity on others. We believe that a big service can be rendered the people by now turning the spotlight of publicity on the newspapers.

"We are exceedingly anxious to make THE CAPITAL TIMES an open forum for the people of Madison and Dane county. By making this newspaper a medium for the expression of the thoughts, feelings and convictions of the people of this community THE CAPITAL TIMES can be made a great power for good. We shall not exclude matter because it does not conform to our opinions. Our only request is that the people desirous of using the columns of this paper shall not resort to personalities, abuse or libel but shall criticise men and measures in a constructive and friendly spirit.

"THE CAPITAL TIMES begins modestly but we believe that it will grow from day to day in the hearts of the people. It will aim to be a people's paper in that it will serve the people in their collective capacity with a truly democratic policy.

"We merely ask the cooperation of all good citizens to the extent that our merits deserve such cooperation."

DRAGS WIFE ACROSS STREET; UP IN COURT

Maranville Charged With Assault and Battery, This Morning

Charged with assault and battery for having dragged his wife across East Dayton street this morning, W. E. Maranville pleaded not guilty. Thursday he was examined by physicians at the order of County Judge A. G. Zimmerman, and their findings were that he was sane. He will be re-examined again today at the order of the superior court.

Maranville is a printer by trade. Early this morning he dragged his wife across the street in front of their home on East Dayton street stating that he was rescuing her. The charge of assault was brought against him for the purpose of bringing him under the observation of the court.

The court ordered that he be remanded to the custody of the sheriff under $2,000 bonds. The case was continued to Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

BARBER STRIKE IS SETTLED

Agreement is Reached Between the Men and the Bosses

The barbers' strike is ended. At a committee meeting Thursday night at which representatives of both union and boss barbers met, both sides acting with full power from their respective organizations, adopted a scale of $16 a week and one-half over $20 taken in at the chair. The old rate was $16 and one-half over $22.

The journeymen have all been back at their chairs for nearly ten days pending action of the committee.

TWO AWARD CASES UNDER ADVISEMENT

The two industrial commission cases in which the Schroder Daly company and Charles Rhan et al. appear as the respective plaintiffs, were both taken under advisement by Judge Stevens Friday morning.

N. P. ORGANIZER ACQUITTED OF SPY ACT CHARGE

John Free Let Off Under Indictment for Disloyal Remark

ST. PAUL—John V. Free, an organizer for the National Nonpartisan league, was acquitted in United States district court here today of a charge of violation of the espionage act.

Free was indicted, charged with having declared in the presence of draft registrants that, "United States had no business in the war and that young men were foolish to enlist."

After a half hour's deliberation the jury brought in a verdict acquitting Free.

WASHINGTON—More than 2,000 American soldiers in France suffering from shell shock were cured by news of the signing of the armistice, Surgeon General Ireland today told the senate military committee. Of 2,500 shell shock patients, the general said, all except about 300 were well almost immediately.

BREST — President Wilson left Brest for Paris at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Holiday In Paris

PARIS — The cabinet at a meeting today decided that Saturday, day of Pres. Wilson's arrival in Paris, shall be a public holiday. Schools and the bourse will be closed.

Lands at Brest

BREST — President Wilson came ashore with Mrs. Wilson who carried an American flag and a bouquet.

There was a thundering cannonade as the president's launch left the George Washington and landed at pier number three. It was escorted to the tribune amid cheers and salvos and the notes of the Sta Spangled Banner.

Pres. Wilson's progress from the pier to his train was amidst a voiceferious welcome from the throngs in the streets.

Gives Brief Address

The president delivered a brief address after landing at Brest, thanking Mayor Goud for the Breton welcome given him. He then drove through the cheering crowds, the frantic ovation continuing until he reached the railway station.

A singular feature of the welcome to the president was the supe presse dinterest of the German prisoners at Brest. It was evident that their interest in the visitor was as keen as that of the huge crowd thronging the town, but the authorities kept these Germans in the back ground.

Among those who lined the route to the station were delegations of patriotic societies and other organizations and throngs of people from the neighboring localities, attired in gala Breton costumes.

The first to greet the president, besides the French ministerial representatives were Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner to the United States, the mayor of Brest, Ambassador Sharp, Col. E. M. House, Gen. John J. Pershing, and Gen. Tasker H. Bliss.

(By the Associated Press)

BREST—President Wilson arrived in the harbor of Brest at 1 o'clock this afternoon on board the steamer George Washington amid deafening salvos of artillery afloat and on short.

The arrival was the culmination of an imposing naval spectacle which began as the presidential fleet rounded the outer capes, then passed the entrance forts and moved majestically into the harbor where the George Washington anchored at the head of a long double column of American dreadnaughts and destroyers and the units of a French cruiser squadron.

The presidential fleet was first sighted at 11:30 o'clock this morning 15 miles off shore. The sea was calm and the stately fleet moved landward under skies which were steadily brightening after a dark and gloomy morning. It was more than an hour later that the ships were signalled at the entrance of the harbor and a great cheer arose from the waiting crowd as the cloud of black smoke showed that the presidential fleet was near.

Mayor Goude of Brest, in greeting Pres. Wilson as he landed said:

"Mr. President: I feel the deepest emotion in presenting to you the welcome of the Breton population. The ship bringing you to this port is the symbol under the auspices of which the legions of your pacific citizens sprang to arms in the grand cause of independence. Under the

DRIVE FOR RED CROSS FUNDS AIDS T. B., TOO

Tuberculosis Work Will be Supported by Direct Appropriation

To reduce public appeals, the National Tuberculosis association will not hold its annual sale of Red Cross Christmas seals for preventing tuberculosis, but will unite efforts with the Red Cross war council in the interest of the Red Cross membership drive, known as the Red Cross Christmas roll call, Dec. 16 to 23. In return the Red Cross has made an appropriation for anti-tuberculosis work among soldiers and civilians in 1919. As a result there will be no Christmas seals sold this year, but 10 of the seals will be given to each one joining the Red Cross during the Christmas roll call, in addition to a 1919 Red Cross membership button, 1919 Red Cross service flag for window display, and a small Red Cross for each subscribing member of the family, to be placed on the service flag.

Unlike last year's campaign, this is a drive primarily for members and not for donations. Last year at this Christmas season the United States was in the throes of war, with months of hardship ahead of the troops, and at that time it was necessary to call for donations and to solicit aid from every quarter. But this year the war is practically over, although the casualty lists continue to come in daily and the people of this country know that there are still about 160,000 names as yet unpublished.

With thousands of men in hospitals still to be cared for, however, it is necessary that the Red Cross conduct its work to the very last with the fineness and carefulness which marked its work during the years of the great war. Therefore the Red Cross is asking only that every person in this prosperous country, and that means everyone in Madison and Done county, shall fall into line and enroll in the greatest relief organization the world has ever known. Thousands of Red Cross nurses and doctors have worked close up to the battlefields, giving their time day and night to save the lives of wounded and sick soldiers, and thousands more worked hour after hour without rest to stamp out the influenza epidemic which invaded the camps and caused such a loss of life in the camps of this country.

It is now planned to make membership in this organization universal by having every person in the United States wear the tiny Red Cross button of membership.

MONTELLO NAMED COUNTY JUDGE

Gov. E. L. Philipp today appointed John A. Metzler, Montello, as county judge of Marquette county. He succeeds Judge Dodge, deceased. The governor also announced the appointment of O. H. Kjorstad, Nobleton, as a member of the state fair advisory board, to succeed Sigvert Malby, deceased.

MOST PROPOSED TO GIRL IN FRANCE; NURSERY SONG DID IT

PARIS — Miss Helen Besler, daughter of the president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is probably the most proposed to girl in France today. It al came about because one night in one of the American camps she ran out of "encores," and sang a little nursery song called "If NO One Ever Marries Me." It goes like this:

"If No one ever marries me,—
And I don't see why they should,
For nurse says I am not pretty,
And I'm seldom very good,"—

The direful fate of the little girl in the song was to be to buy a rabbit-hutch and live a loenallin bit-hutch and live all alone in a little wood. But the American soldiers saw no reason why Miss Besler who is pretty and "petite" and a typical American girl should have a similar lot. After they had given her the three cheers and a tiger with which they usually thank the Y. M. C. A. entertainers, they hesitated a moment and then added a purely personal message.

"Barkis is willin,." caled the A. E. F. as one man.

S. A. T. C. ARMY DISBANDED BY MONDAY NIGHT

Navy Starts Physical Exams; Will be Disenrolled Friday, Dec. 20

The long-waited-for, much-hoped-for demobilization of the S. A. T. C. began today with the disbanding of the radio company and Companies I, K, and M of section B.

Tomorrow Company L of section B and companies A and B of section A will be mustered out. The order in which the remaining companies will be demobilized has not been definitely determined.

All Out by Monday

All companies will be disbanded by Monday night at the latest. The quarantine on S. A. T. C. will not be lifted until this time, but the men will be at liberty to go to their homes as soon as they are discharged.

Dean S. H. Goodnight stated that the men will be allowed to cut the rest of their classes this quarter, but if they were low in their studies he would advise that they stay until the end of this term in order to complete their work satisfactorily.

Navy Examinations Continue

Physical examinations for the navy will continue tomorrow and be completed by Saturday morning at the latest. Orders will then be awaited from Great Lakes placing the men on inactive duty for the remainder of the four year period of enlistment. The men will be paid up in full next Friday and be at liberty to leave Dec. 21. Lieut. Malkin is conducting the physical examinations.

NO INAUGURAL CEREMONIES. SAYS PHILIPP

State Officials to Take Oath Without Fuss Nor Feathers

There will be no fuss or feathers over the inauguration this year. Gov. Philipp announced today that he expected to file his oath of office within a few days and that the other state officials would do the same. Four years ago, Gov. Philipp was inaugurated with great ceremony. Two years ago he filed his oath without any regular inaugural ceremonies.

"One inaugural ceremony ought to be sufficient," said Gov. Philipp when asked about the matter today. "These ceremonies are expensive. This is no time to ask people to make extra expenditures on ceremonies. These are days when every dollar must be saved. For that reason I do not believe that an inaugural ceremony is necessary this year."

Sometime within the next few days, Chief Justice J. B. Winslow of the Wisconsin supreme court will be called to the executive office to administer the oath for the new term. A written oath will then be filed with the secretary of state. Other officers who will file their oaths in a similar manner are: Lieut. E. F. Dithmar, Baraboo; Secretary of State Merlin Hull; State Treasurer Henry Johnson and Atty.-Gen. John J. Blaine of Boscobel. There will probably be few changes in the personnel of the different departments as the result of the new administration. W. B. Naylor will be retained as assistant secretary of state. It is not known as yet who will be appointed as deputy attorney general to take the place of Walter Bender.

Gov. Philipp is not expected to make any changes in his official family. L. C. Whittet, will continue as the chief advisor in the executive office and M. F. Blumenfeid will be reappointed as superintendent of public property. Roy Morse, Fond du Lac, has been mentioned as a possibility as executive counsel during the legislature, if George B. Hudnall, Milwaukee, declines the position.

STOCKMEN WILL MEET DEC. 19 AT GREEN BAY

Problems of Food in Reconstruction Days to be Discussed

Wisconsin stockmen will meet at Green Bay, December 19 to talk over problems concerning the task of feeding the United States, its allies in the late struggle and the territories of Europe devastated by war. The affair is under the direction of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' Association. Originally set for Nov. 19, this meeting was postponed on account of the influenza epidemic.

The program will begin in the afternoon with an address by A. J. Glover, Ft. Atkinson. B. H. Rawl, assistant chief, United States Bureau of animal husbandry, will discuss the nation's call for better live stock. D. S. Bullock, field man for the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, will talk about getting the right sire to head the herd.

"Making Cow Testing a Big Factor in Live Stock Improvement" will be handled by F. G. Swoboda, district supervisor for Wisconsin county agents. "Help in Financing Live Stock Enterprises" will be discussed by W. L. Wagner, Citizens National bank of Green Bay. In the evening Mr. Rawl will give some opinions on what peace means to tsockmen. W. L. Houser, Mondovi, will take up the problem of interesting boys and girls in stock improvement work.

GREEN CHOSEN E. F. U. PRESIDENT

Madison Assembly, No. 67, Equitable Fraternal union, dedicated a service flag containing six stars at a meeting held Thursday night. C. F. Green gave the dedicatory talk. The election of officers for the coming year was as follows:

President—C. F. Green.
Vice president—E. C. Story.
Advisor—William Norton.
Secretary—Magnus Nelson.
Treasurer—Alexander Bunker.
Warden—E. C. Green.

Installation will take place at the first meeting in January.

READY FOR HARD WINTER AT OFFICE

Over 40 tons of coal were put in the federal building Wednesday and Thursday. If the post office is not warm this year it will not be because of insufficient coal reserves. Already there were 150 tons of coal stacked away in the bins in the cellar. Last year the amount used was 200 tons. It will probably take that much this winter, unless a mild winter sets in.

WIELDING WOODEN LEGS FOR SOLDIERS IS WORK OF F. L. B.

Turning willow bolts into wooden legs for disabled soldiers is one of the latest activities of the federal Forest Products laboratory. At the request of the army surgeon general the laboratory is experimenting on artificial seasoning of willow. This process turns out willow thoroughly seasoned in from sixty to seventy days, whereas the natural process takes from three to five years. Willow is the best wood for wooden legs.

The seasoning is a question of determining the form in which the material can be dried and what the dry kiln conditions should be respecting temperature, humidity, air circulation and piling.

The government employs men to travel throughout the country and buy up whatever suitable willow they may find. The wood is cut in bolts, 30 to 40 inches long, and split in quarters for shipment by farmers. At the laboratory they are sliced into cylindrical shape, hollowed out and cut down to eliminate, in the drying process, all unnecessary wood and reduce the block as nearly as possible to its final shape and size.

COUNTY SHIPS $24,000 DAIRY BREEDING STOCK

Representatives of Agricultural Extension Operate Trade System

Since the fall of 1917, there have been more than $24,000 worth of high grade and pure-bred dairy breeding stock shipped out of Winnebago county under the system operated by the College of Agriculture and representatives of agricultural extension work in southern states.

Gad Sells, emergency food agent for Winnebago county, lists the deals in substance thus:

To North Dakota in July, 1917, went two carloads of Holsteins, 58 animals valued at $5,500.

To Oklahoma in October, 1917, there were shipped two carloads of Holsteins, 60 head at $6,000.

To Arkansas in July, 1918, were sent three cars of Holsteins or 95 head, worth more than $6,500.

To South Carolina in September, 1918, there was sent one car of pure bred Guernseys, 22 in all valued at $6,000.

The movement of breeding stock southward wil surely continue, and in this game the county agricultural agents have a chance to aid their own community and likewise help increase the total dairy products output of the nation. Mr. Sell, working with Reid F. Murray, of the Agricultural college, as well as M. J. Hoppert, of Sheboygan county are among the foremost exponents of breeding trade regulations with the south and west. Individaul cattle men in the dairy regions of Wisconsin, are also taking it up and completing deals with stock buyers from Iowa, Illinois, and Minnesota. Nearly all of the big trade with Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Missouri comes through county agents.

MENASHA — Plans for the erection of a memorial building here for the soldiers were furthered at a meeting of the committee in charge held Tuesday night. The building for Menasha is now practically assured.

BARLEY LOSS NOT CAUSED BY BEER BAN

Prof. Moore Says Grain Will be Used for Various Food Products

What will become of the 10,000,000 or more bushels of barley that Wisconsin farmers sell annually to the maltsters, now that Dec. 1 has ushered in the new era when beer cannot be brewed in this country? Will these millions of bushels of barley be an economic and financial loss to Wisconsin farmers?

"No," says Prof. R. A. Moore, head of the work of agronomy at the University of Wisconsin. "There will be no loss to the farmers, but rather a big gain. They can convert their barley into milk, cream, cheese, beef and pork instead of making it into beer. As soon as feeders of farm animals and poultry find out the true value of barley there will be immense quantities used for feeding purposes.

"The farmer makes a mistake in selling the barley off his farm. For every bushel of barley put into the market he is carrying 15 cents worth of fertility off his farm that could be retained if he used the grain for feeding purposes."

Large Barley Crop Grown.

An average of 25,000,000 bushels of barley is grown in Wisconsin yearly, or one-eighth of the entire crop in the United States. The southeastern section of the state is the main barley-growing section, including the counties of Dane, Washington, Fond du Lac, Dodge, Sheboygan, Calumet, and Manitowoc. The area is being extended and several other counties are producing considerable amounts.

Much of this barley is of the pedigreed variety, having grown from a single seed. It runs comparatively high in protein content with a total of from 14 to 15 per cent. The high feeding value can be seen when barley is compared with corn, which has a total protein content of about 9 per cent.

Used For Feed In West.

In the western states the value of barley for feeding purposes is more generally known than here. Very little of the annual output goes to the maltster. The barley in those states is grown as has hay and feed for horses. It is cut in the milk stage shortly after heading, when it is used as hay and it is cured like timothy or blue grass. When it is fed to the horses it is either fed whole or crushed by rolling. For hogs, the grain is soaked or ground, and for other animals with peas, oats or corn as a mixed feed.

HOLWAY LAUDS RED CROSS AID TO SOLDIERS

Adjutant General Praises Work in Camps in Letter to Bard

That the American Red Cross has rendered great service to the soldiers in the present war and are continuing to render valuable aid at the military camps is the statement of Adjutant General Orlando Holway in a letter to Ralph Bard, director of the Military Relief. Adjutant General Holway's letter follows:

"The Governor is just in receipt of the reports of two staff officers of this department whom he sent to visit Army Hospitals at Des Moines and Fort Snelling to ascertain what if anything the state might do to better the lot of wounded Wisconsin soldiers.

"They report that in general all that can be done for the welfare and comfort of these men is being done.

"He desires that I shall communicate to you his appreciation of the thorough, systematic of the excellent service being rendered at such hospitals by units of the American Red Cross under their Field Directors. He wishes me especially to express his commendation and sympathetic manner in which Mr. Harry I. Worth, the Field Director at Fort Des Moines, has anticipated and both of the soldiers themselves and of their relatives in matters that are outside those provided for in Army Regulations."

GRIFFIN REPORTS ON ENGINEERING

Rear Admiral Gives Figures on Navy Building During War

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—One month before the armistice with Germany ended the war, the American navy was operating a total of 1,959 vessels of all descriptions, of which 264 carrying 42,000 men, were actively participating in the war in European waters.

These figures were disclosed today in the annual report of Rear Admiral Griffin, chief of the bureau of steam engineering. Daily expenditures of the bureau during the war year covered by the report exceeded $777,000.

Admiral Griffin said the regular navy on the date of his report consisted of 570 ships, supplemented by 93 vessels from the coast guard, lighthouse service, coast and geodetic survey and fish commission. In addition the navy was then operating 937 converted merchant craft, yachts and the like, and the naval overseas transport service, consisting of 247 shipping board and other supply vessels, with 112 more about to be commissioned. Construction under way for the regular navy at that time included 376 new ships of all kinds and 52 tugs.

To keep up the fleet aboard, three repair bases were established in France, one in Great Britain, one at Gibraltar and two in the Mediterranean. These were supplemented by six repair ships which achieved remarkable results in repairing vessels at sea.

The report makes the first official announcement regarding development of the submarine detection devices and shows that American esuipment for this purpose has been placed aboard both British and French naval craft. Details are not disclosed.

WOMEN SHORN OF HAIR FOR LISTING GERMAN LOVERS

BRUGES — An ancient form of punishment in favor in the middle ages has been adopted in Belgium for Belgian women who were too friendly toward the German invaders or who listened to their love-making. They have been shorn of their hair. In Bruges several women have suffered this form of retribution and either must remain indoors or patronize the wig-makers. It is known that this method has been applied in at least one other place. The scenes attending the application of this punishment has been rather boisterous.

INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAXES INCREASED

Commission's Final Tables $500,000 Gain Over Last Year

An increase in individual income taxes by over $500,000 for the past year was reported by the state tax commission in its final tabulation tables today.

The total of individual and corporation taxes is $11,830,142.36. This is over $2,000,000 greater than the total income tax assessed last year, which was $9,482,595.56.

Approximately 40 percent of the income tax will be colected in Milwaukee. The total income tax assessments there is $4,949,162.40. The smallest income tax is assessed in Adams county, where the total is only $911.68. The total tax collected in Milwaukee county is larger than the entire income tax for any one year of the first four years that the law was in operation. The income tax is collected in January.

Under the terms of the law, 10 per cent is retained by the state, which pays the entire cost of the assessment; 20 percent goes to the county and 70 percent goes to the locality in which the property or individual assessed is located.

Some of the large total assessments are: Sheboygan county, $4,240,372.08; Winnebago, $288,899.07; Ashland, $100,177.53; Bayfield, $151,423.81; Dane, $321,699.78; Eau Claire, $189,812.23; Fond du Lac, $129,019.09; La Crosse, $185,853.55; Outagamie, $322,573.35; Rock, $281,008.65; Racine, $709,565.81 and Brown, $233,860.87.

S. A. T. C. GALLANT RESCUES FAIR MAID

Sir Walter Raleigh missed the opportunity of the century for his business last night after "Benny" Snow's lecture on snow, when a fair Wisconsin co-ed, seeking a short cut through the quag-mire of clayey muck behind the Physics building, found herself all tangled up in the mud as to the rubbers.

Being of an ingenious personality, our heroine decided to leave her rubbers where they had taken up a permanent location in the midst of said slough.

But our heroine was not an angel, she was not even a saint, in fact, she must have been a very temporal being and Mother Earth was resolved to claim her own. So the demoiselle was sicked into the cold slime of the quag-mire before the very eyes of her companions on the walk.

Enter our hero—stalwart youth of the S. A. T. C.

He grasps the maid firmly by the arm and walks her dryly out to terra more firma.

Shade of Raleigh, well done!

Roy Stewart, Triangle star, will be in a story of his own writing, "Cactus Crandall," at the Majestic today. "Cactus Crandall" is a story of a man of iron, who beards a Mexican bandit in his den in order to rescuea girl in the bandit's power.

WASHINGTON—Fourteen battleships, 10 armored cruisers and 44 transports will bring home from France the American Expeditionary forces.

GERMANS HELD TRIBUNE WAS FRIENDLY PAPER

Capt. Lester Testifies Such in Brewer Propaganda Investigation

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The German government on July 10, 1914, informed about 130 German civilian employes at a conference in Berlin, that a world war would be started soon, Capt. G. B. Lester of the army intelligence service testified today before the senate committee investigating German and brewers' propaganda.

These employes then were dispatched to all parts of the world, 31 coming to the United States, to stimulate pan-German propaganda, Capt. Lester declared. He said his information came from an unnamed informant now interned in this country.

The German propagandists landed in the United States in August, 1914, on the same boat with Dr. H. F. Albert, known as the paymaster of the enemy propaganda system in this country, and immediately formed the nucleus for German propadanda.

These propagandists were chosen by the German government, Capt. Lester testified, because of their knowledge of foreign languages, their ability to write and their knowledge of legal and public matters in general.

Informant's Name Withheld.

The army officer explained that he did not feel justified in giving the names of his informants on the ground that this man might wish to return to Germany after being released from internment. Pan-German propaganda was started by Germany in 1894 as a means of carrying German ideas to every country in the world, Capt. Lester told the committee. This propaganda, he said, was to be carried to South and Central America, Japan and China and to the United States.

Testimony that Edward Lyell Fox a writer, was sent to Germany in 1915 by the German embassy to write German propaganda which was distributed by the Hearst International news service, was presented by Capt. Lester.

Tribune Friendly Paper

In response to questions Capt. Lester said there is nothing in the army intelligence record showing whether either Mr. Hearst or managers of International News Service knew that Fox was in the pay of the German government. The witness read a telegram sent from the German embassy in Washington to the German foreign office Sept. 9, 1914, saying:

"Chicago Tribune friendly paper."

Capt. Lester said that Fox confessed to him that while in Germany he had an understanding that he would write anything he was told to write by the German publicity bureau at Berlin.

The witness said he obtained from Fox the admission that an article appearing in the New York American, Sept. 18, 1915, dealing with alleged atrocities by Russian Cossacks was written by him under instructions from German officers as a means of offsetting the stories of German atrocities in Belgium that had become to come about that time.

Never Saw Atrocities

"I obtained from Fox his original notes written in lead pencil on the Cossack story," Capt. Lester said, "And he admitted he never saw any of the atrocities referred to and that to his knowledge none of them ever were committed. Fox was given courtesies from German officers that no other correspondent was able to obtain.

Fox, Captain Lester testified, was sent to Germany in 1915 by the German embassy ostensibly as a correspondent of Wildman newspaper and magazine syndicate and also was employed by the Corresjondents' Film company, which the witness said was financed by the German government. The managers of the Wildman syndicate did not know of Fox's connections with the German embassy, so far as Capt. Lester knew. He said Fox was attached to the Hearst newspaper headquarters in Germany and in proof presented a letter from Bradford Merrill, publisher of the New York American, written June 29, 1915, to E. Norgrove Cox, who was in charge of the transmission service of the Hearst or International News Service on the contient, located at The Hague. This letter introduced Fox and asked that his dispatches from Germany be forwarded promptly.

Hearst Service Stopped.

Capt. Lester explained that operations in Europe of the Hearst service to which he referred were stopped by the British government in Oct., 1916.

Capt. Lester said that as a result of a request by Pres. Wilson at a personal interview with William Randolph Hearst, changes were made in the film play "Patria," produced serially in the United States early in 1917, picturing Japan and Mexico in an alliance against the United States. The witness cited this film as one bearing earmarks of German propaganda.

WASHINGTON—Charles Piez was elected director general of the emergency fleet corporation, succeeding Charles M. Schwab, resigned.

SERGT. ROBBINS KILLED IN FRANCE AND YOUNG WIDOW

Sergt. B. Robbins, 121 Proudfit street, who was killed in action overseas, Oct. 16, was the first member of Black Hawk division to be killed in the service. He was a member of Co. L, 341st infantry.

His young widow, formerly Miss Marion O'Neill, survives him. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins were married just shortly before he entered the service. He is also survived by his father, G. Robbins, and two sisters, Mrs. New Smith, 729 West Washington avenue, and Mrs. Roy Gyles, 112 South Brooks street. Before entering the service he was employed by the Kearney Roofing company.

DOOM FORECASTER IS ARRESTED

Ellis O. Jones, Purported Auther of Bolshevism Proclamation, is Held

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Ellis O. Jones, purported auther of a document spread broadcast here yesterday, "proclaiming" that a reign of Bolshevism would begin in this country at noon today, was arrested this afternoon on the Mall at Central Park when he attempted to deliver an address.

Prior to Jones' arrival at Central Park, 500 mounted police and motor cycle officers and a detachment of the army provost guard had been stationed, prepared for a demonstration by radicals. In a police station twelve Browning machine guns were held in readiness.

YANK MARCH HALTS AT RHINE

American Squadron Arrives at Pola, Austrian Naval Base

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The American army marching into Germany has come to a stand on the Rhine. Gen. Pershing's report for yesterday says there was no advance during the day.

AMSTERDAM—An American squadron has arrived at Pola, formerly one of the principal Austrial naval bases, and has taken over the command of the port. Jugo-Slav war vessels in the harbor have hoisted the American flag, according to a telegram from Laibach, reporting the arrival of the Americans.

PARIS—French marines have entered Odessa, Russia, and have received a cordial welcome from the people there, according to the Matin. Detachments have occupied the wireless station and expelled German soldiers from all military posts.

COBLENZ—Sales of fire arms have been prohibited in Coblenz by order of the burgomaster, who is cooperating with the American forces. All civilians are directed to turn over their fire arms to the municipal authorities.

Says Holland Should Have Refused.

THE HAGUE (Thursday)—Switzerland refused to admit the former German emperor when he fled from Germany, and Holland ought to have followed the example of the republic, declared M. Ravensteyn, a revolutionary socialist in the lower house of the Dutch parliament today.

The former emperor, he continued, should not be handed over to the allies, but should be sent to Germany for trial by a people's tribuna.

KANSAS CITY—A man and a woman were killed, four persons sustained injuries which may prove fatal, and 12 others received less serious injuries when a street car ran wild down the Twelfth street viaduct here this afternoon, left the tracks on the lower approach to the structure and crushed into the Union Pacific freight depot.

Merry Christmas

Last Greeting of Pres. Van Hise is Sent to Men in Service.

Christmas cards, bearing Pres. C. R. Van Hise's last greeting to Wisconsin men in service, have just been sent by the University of Wisconsin to all alumni and former students who, according to its records, are now in the army or navy. The greeting is as follows:

"Dear Sons of Wisconsin:

"If this is a Merry Christmas, you have helped to make it so; if peace and good will have returned to earth, your sacrifice and toil have helped bring them back. If today, because of the triumph of right and justice, a new light has broken across the world, it is to you and our heroic dead that we owe our right to hail its beams.

"Your University is proud to reckon more than 3,000 of her sons in the service, 2,000 of you having gone as undergraduates. Another 3,000 men, wearing the uniform of our country, have drilled on the campus this fall. Through the years to come we shall proudly recall that it was from our halls you went out to battle; your gallantry will inspire the men and women who come after you, and will give a new radiance to the spirit of Wisconsin.

"In the New Year which is dawning for mankind we renew our pledge of devotion to the Commonwealth and the Nation We wish you good luck and a safe return. On Wisconsin!

"A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!"

The University of Wisconsin.

What Folks Are Doing

The Mothers' club of the Petit Memorial school has made arrangements for noon luncheons to be served to the pupils of the school beginning Jan. 2. Members of the club and teachers at the school have planned a special Christmas program which will be given Dec. 20.

* * *

Mrs. James M. Dorrans, Madison street, assisted by Mrs. W. M. Milward of the Coney Weston farm, will entertain the Wingra Park Woman's Aid society Tuesday afternoon.

* * *

Col. William F. Vilas circle, No. 33, Ladies of the G. A. R., will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the G. A. R. hall. Election of officers will be held.

* * *

Mrs. Russell R. Bates entertained the Progressive circle of the First Methodist church. Thursday afternoon, at her home, East Johnson street. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Minnie Glasgow, president; Mrs. R. R. Bates, vice president; Mrs. A. C. Anderson, secretary, and Miss Julia Goodsell, treasurer.

* * *

The Alpha Phi sorority will entertain 40 children tonight at a Christmas tree party. Games will be played and Santa Claus will distribute gifts.

* * *

Capt. Joseph W. Bollenbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bollenbeck, West Johnson street, left this morning for Camp Dix, N. J., after spending a five day furlough in the city. Capt Bollenbeck was recently transferred from the 12th infantry, Camp Fremont, Calif., to the 153d depot brigade at Camp Dix.

* * *

A Christmas party will be given at the Madison high school gymnasium, Wednesday, Dec. 18, for the French department of the school. A French playlet will be given by the freshmen and seniors, and a feature of the evening will be the community singing of the French national anthem, Marseillaise. A Christmas tree and dancing are also included in the entertainment. The Misses Rebecca Flint, Frances Ellman, Caroline Young and Hilda Volkman, instructors at the school, will be in charge of the program.

* * *

Miss Gertrude E. Johnson, assistant professor of public speaking, left this week for Columbia university, New York city, N. Y., to attend lectures and give a series of recitals. Mrs. R. F. Seyboldt of the department of public speaking, is conducting Miss Johnson's classes.

* * *

The girls at Chadbourne and Barnard halls will hold their Christmas parties Saturday evening. The Barnard girls have not completed their arrangements but the Chadbourne girls have decided on a Christmas tree and Santa Claus. The gifts and tree will be given to the neighborhood house after the party. Special Christmas vesper services are planned in both halls for Sunday morning.

* * *

* * *

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Anna M. Keichinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keichinger, Dane, to William J. Foche of Chicago, senior in the medical school at the university.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Osterhus, Burke, were pleasantly surprised Thursday evening when a party of 50 relatives and friends came to help celebrate their silver wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. Refreshments were served.

SUGAR RULES ARE STILL IN LIMELIGHT

In an order issued by the county federal food administrator attention is called to the rules governing the distribution of sugar.

Merchants are not limited as to the amount of sugar they may sell.

Sugar books are no longer required to be kept by merchants.

Consumers are warned not to hoard sugar. Not more than 60 days' supply should be kept on hand.

SOLDIER VERSE

Miss Clara Larson, Nurse in France, Sends Poem Home.

The following snatch of verse was written by a soldier in the care of Miss Clara Larson, who is one of the Madison Red Cross nurses now in French service. The poem was read by Rev. Holden M. Olsen at the "letter service" at the Norwegian Lutheran church last Sunday night:

I heard a blue bird singing
  A moment I forgot
The truth of pain
  And greed and gain
A moment I forgot.

I saw a wild rose clinging
  A moment it was gone
The press of life
  And war and strife
A moment it was gone.
I heard the church bells ringing
  My heart remembered there
The toll of bell
  For those who fell
Ah—I remembered there.

HOLMES TO SPEAK AT PRESS CLUB

Fred L. Holmes, Madison legislative correspondent for the Associated Press, will address the Press club tonight at 7 o'clock in the journalism room in South hall on the subject, "Wisconsin and the War." The meeting will be open and everyone interested is invited.

A short business meeting will be held by the members immediately after the lecture. Miss Garnet Kleven of the committee on membership is compiling a file of names of last year's members which will be presented for correction at the meeting tomorrow.

STATE HOLDS KEY POSITION IN WORLD STORE

Wisconsin in Center of Interest in Food Products, Says Bulletin

Wisconsin holds a key position in the upper center of the world's most valued storehouse. Wisconsin is nearly in the center of the most important map in the world. The center of interest has shifted from the war zone to the Mississippi valley. Al hands and all eyes are turned this way. The war is over, but the struggle for sustenance is still on.

"Wisconsin is the keystone of the dairy arch. Smhe annually produces nearly 10,000,000,000 pounds of milk, one-tenth of the nation's total supply.

"The total exports of dairy products in the form of butter, cheese, and condensed milk for the nation requires about 2,000,000,000 pounds of whole milk. Wisconsin's excess production supplied this need three times over. This year Wisconsin added more than 6 percent to her annual dairy output and at the same time sent thousands of young dairy cattle to other states.

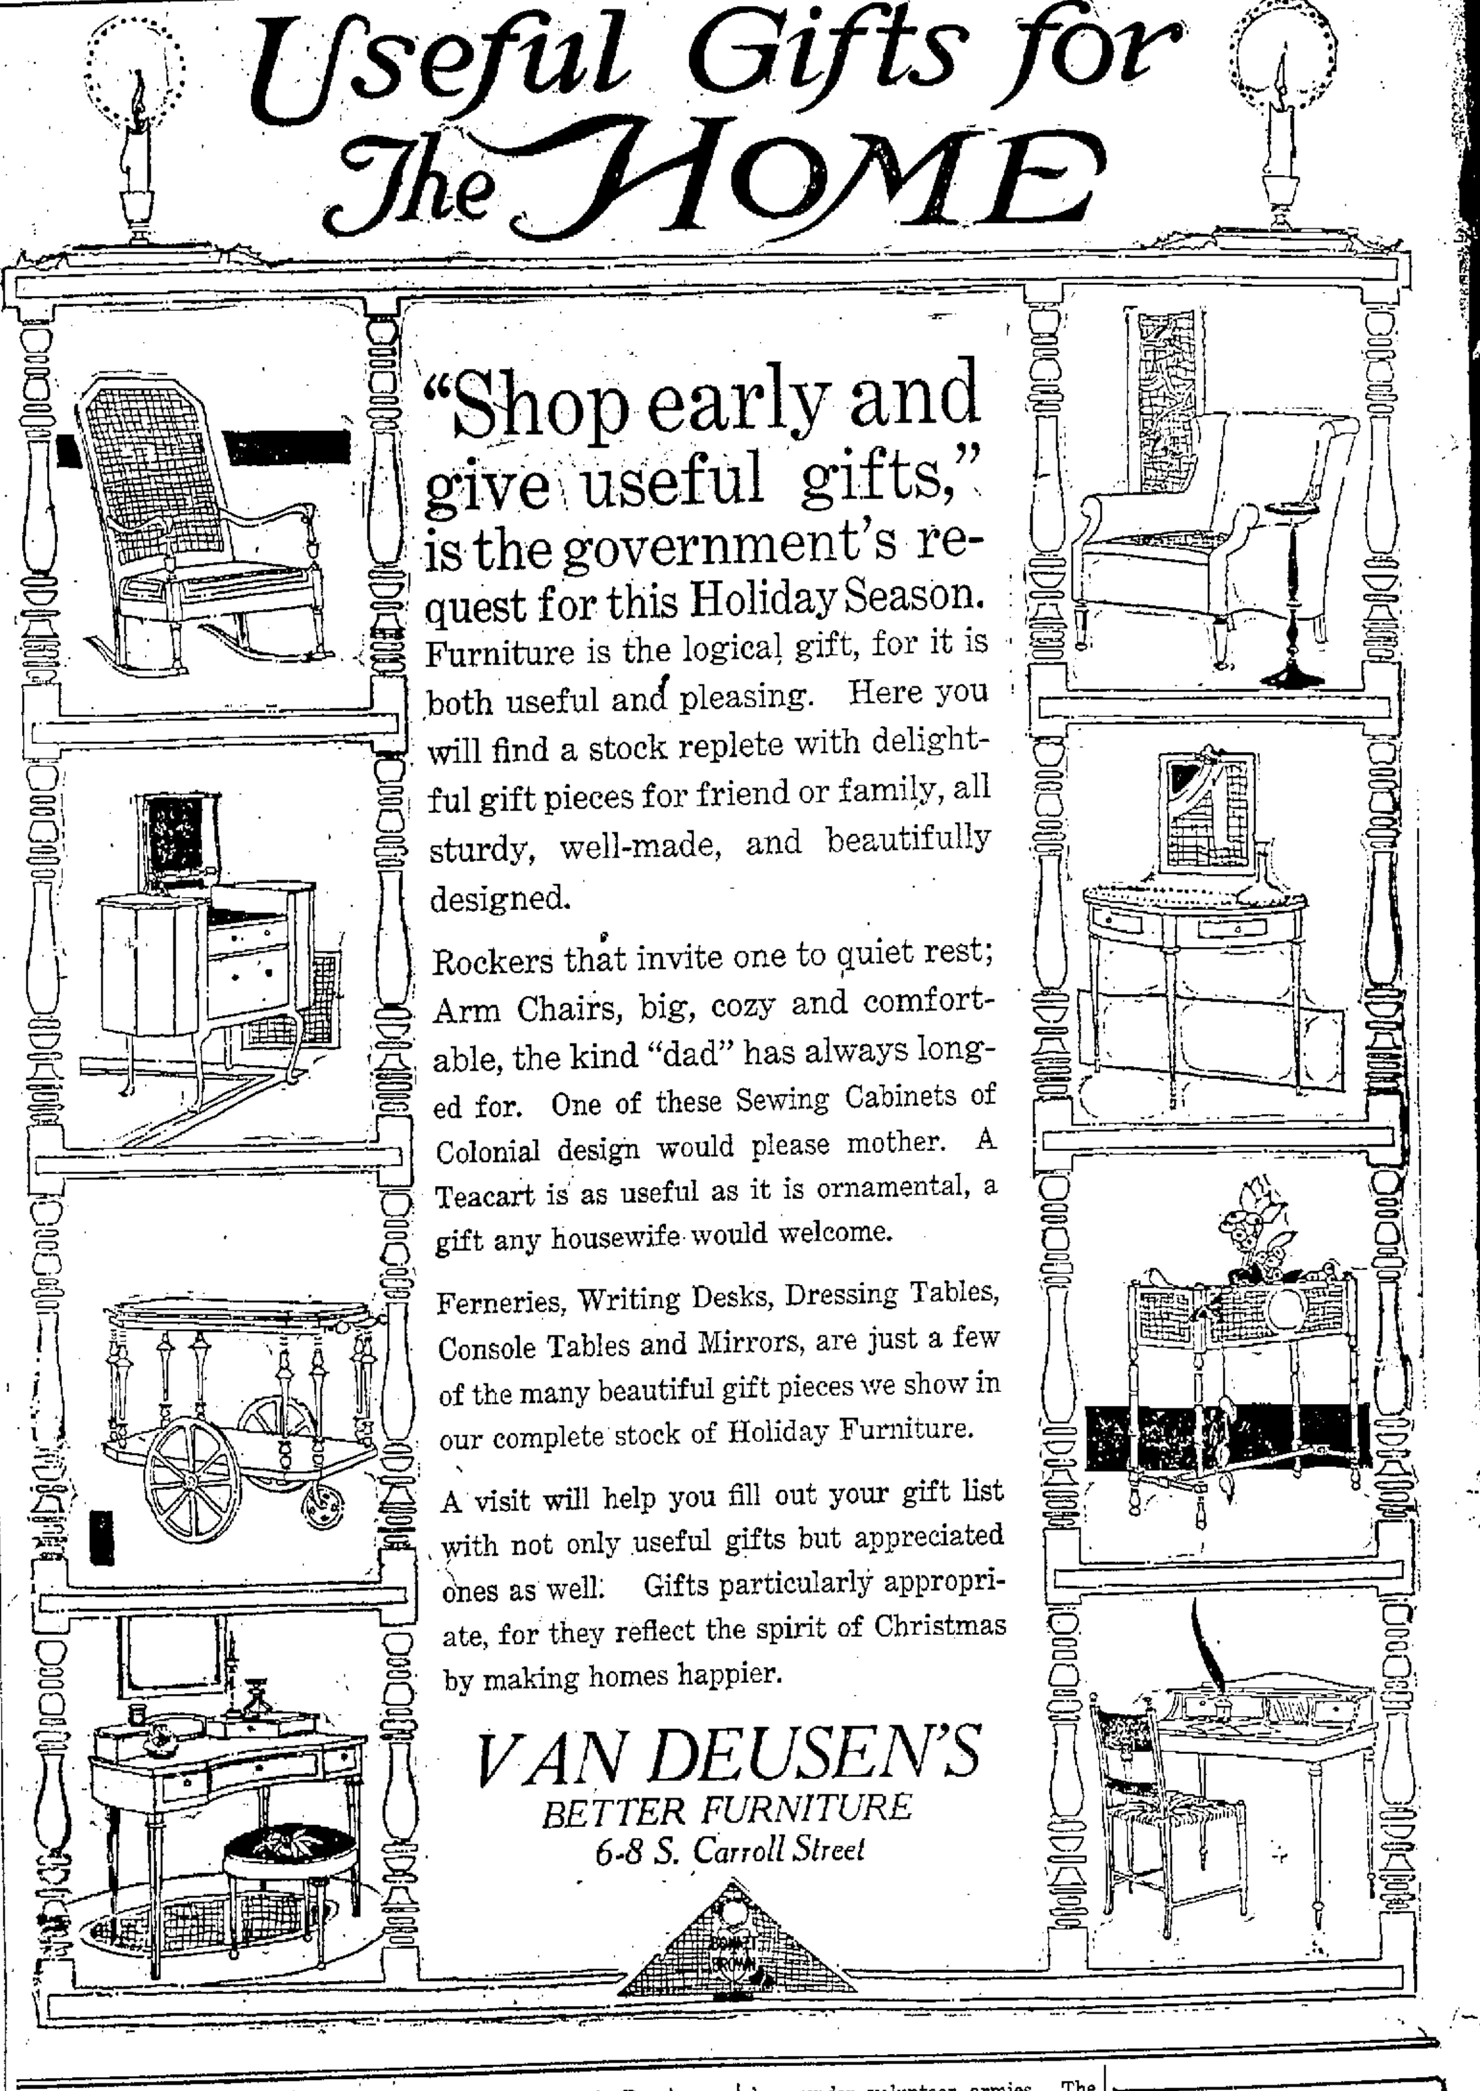
"The production of meat is largely dependent upon the production of corn. But despite an almost complete corn failure and a consequent shortage of seed last year, more than 200,000 head were added to the states supply of meat producing animals.

"In normal times the United States does not produce more than 20 per cent of its total sugar needs. Wisconsin has this year produced more than enough sugar to feed its entire population on the basis of the present allotment."



Useful Gifts for The HOME

"Shop early and give useful gifts," is the government's request for this Holiday Season.

Furniture is the logical gift, for it is both useful and pleasing. Here you will find a stock replete with delightful gift pieces for friend or family, all sturdy, well-made, and beautifully designed.

Rockers that invite one to quiet rest; Arm Chairs, big, cozy and comfortable, the kind "dad" has always longed for. One of these Sewing Cabinets of Colonial design would please mother. A Teacart is as useful as it is ornamental, a gift any housewife would welcome.

Ferneries, Writing Desks, Dressing Tables, Console Tables and Mirrors, are just a few of the many beautiful gift pieces we show in our complete stock of Holiday Furniture.

A visit will help you fill out your gift list with not only useful gifts but appreciated ones as well. Gifts particularly appropriate, for they reflect the spirit of Christmas by making homes happier.

CLUB DENOUNCES SECURITY LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Social Science club held in the university library, Thursday night, the question of compulsory military service was discussed. The members of the society were a unity in their opposition to any form of compulsory service. Intervention in Russia was also denounced.

A majority of the members expressed the belief that some sort of international policing might be desirable, but that it should be done under volunteer armies. The American Security league was denounced for its part in fostering militarism in this country.

TO OUR READERS

To those who have been reading this paper for the past year we want to make a statement. We are endeavoring to make this a people's paper. Not one cent of money will go into this newspaper that will compromise in any way the policy that is has pursued in the past year. If The Capital Times cannot pursue that policy there is no field for it in this community.

In order for The Capital Times to become a better and more influential newspaper it must have the support of its readers. You, Mr. Reader, can do a big service to this paper by remembering at all times to patronize the advertisers of this paper. You have probably noticed that the advertising patronage of this paper has been steadily growing for the past six months. We will make futrher growths in the next six months. Whenever you contemplate buying anything remember to patronize advertisers of The Capital Times.

There is another thing that our subscribers can do. If you believe that The Capital Times is doing a work that is needed why not try to extend its influence? Why not make up your mind that you are going to get at least one subscriber who is not now reading the paper? That will help also.

The Capital Times is a paper for the people. In turn we ask the support of the people in helping to make this paper a greater power than ever.

LABOR READJUSTMENT

BUT few of our soldiers have been discharged. Fewer yet have taken their place in industry. But there is a decided change already noticeable in the labor markets. The readjustment has commenced and we hesitate to predict what the final outcome is going to be. There has been no lowering of wages and we don't see how there can be a lowering of wages as long as the present high cost of living keeps up. But while there has been no reduction of the wage base there has been reduction of hours and overtime which in some industries has materially reduced the pay check. In some industries there has been a substantial decrease in the number of men employed. We quote from the financial column of a metropolitan paper:

> In every trade discussion concerning the business outlook the factor or wages at once arises. One of the ways in which labor costs are being reduced is through the abandonment of overtime. One concern which employed 15,000 men has had its orders decreased to a point where overtime is not required, and its abolition led to such dissatisfaction among the workers that they gradually quit the firm, until now its pay roll embraces no more than 5,000 men. The change came about naturally and without any conflict.
> An attractive feature of war work has been the time and a half paid for extra hours. Since extra work is no longer required, the workers, having accustomed themselves to the high returns for a long day's work, are seeking new positions in the hope of meeting the old returns.
>
> But the experience of munitions factories is that fewer workers are being almost daily required and the adjustment has already begun.

BACK UP

THE tremendous expenses of the government in the past year should serve as a warning now that the war is over for immediate retrenchment. The government has been reckless beyond all precedent in expenditures. Every war department has been loaded with useless and annoying extravagances. At the same time the ordinary civil affairs of the government have been crippled by insufficient help. The Post Office service has been woefully inadequate. Never in the history of the country has the mail service been so inefficient. It has been a public scandal. On the other hand the department of justice has been overrun with thousands of secret agents that served no useful purpose. The department of labor has been running around in circle and making a big bluff to bolster up little service. The employment bureau is a case in point.

Here in Wisconsin for example, this bureau entered on a program that would take on salaried help at a cost of more than 150,000 per annum with additional expenditures of more than $100,000. This bureau has been as useless as a wart on the end of the nose. It merely served to attract attention by a system of annoying interference with an entirely natural adjustment of labor going on under the supervision of the Industrial Commission at small cost. But through the national bureau the state bureau has been disorganized and made innocuous. Real service has been substituted by purile meddling with very satisfactory conditions. The government should call a prompt halt on these unnecessary activities and useless expenditures. We have been running amuck. Back up.

"IT CAN BE DONE."

(Reprinted from The Capital Times, Dec. 13, 1917.)

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Somebody had said that "it couldn't be done"—
 But he with a chuckle, replied
That "maybe it couldn't,55 but he would be one
 Who wouldn't say so "till he'd tried."
So he buckled right in, with a bit of a grin
 On his face—and if he worried he hid it;
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
 That "couldn't be done"—and he did it.

Somebody scoffed, "Oh, you'll never do that;
 At least no one ever has done it";
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat,
 And the first thing he knew he'd begun it.
With the lift of his chin and a bit of a grin
 Without any doubt or "quiddit"
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
 That "couldn't be done" and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you "it cannot be done,"
 There are thousands to prophesy failure,
There are thousands to point out, one by one,
 The dangers that wait to assail you.
But just you tackle in with a bit of a grin,
 Then take off your coat and go to it—
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
 That couldn't be done,—and you'll do it.

River Transportation Described By Madison Participant

George B. Merrick, of City and S. S. Hanks Give Vivid Impressions of Days When Water Routes Were Scenes of Activity—Majesty of Mississippi Has Departed Says Boatman — Railroads Sounded Knell on Fathers of Waters in 1854.

By FRED L. HOLMES

THAT there will never be a revival of Mississippi river transportation similar to that which existed before and during the Civil war, even under the tutelage of the federal government, are the opinions of George B. Merrick, Madison and S.S. Hanks, Davenport, Ia., both old Mississippi river captains. Captain Hanks thinks that the experiment of carrying coal and iron up and down the river barges may work out, but for package freight he believes the railroads have permanently put the boats out of business, the question of speed being more important than economy. The Mississippi river has had much to do with building Wisconsin. It brought settlers by scores into the state in an early day.

In these days when river transportation has so fallen into disuse, it is difficult to realize the extensive commerce that was carried on before the advent of the railroads. Captain Hanks, now 91 years, was a pilot for half a century. His father was a brother of Miss Hanks, mother of Abraham Lincoln. Merrick is a recognized authority on Mississippi river commerce and life.

Majesty Has Departed.

"The majesty and glory of the great river have departed," comments Mr. Merrick. "The glamour remains, fresh and undying in the memory of those who, with mind's eye, still can see it as it was half a century ago. Its majesty was apparent in the mighty flood which then flowed throughout the season, scacely diminished by the summer heat; its glory, in the great commerce that floated on its bosom, the beginning of the mighty commonwealths yet to be. Of the river itself, it may be said, that like the wild tribes which peopled its banks sixty years ago, civilization has been its undoing."

In the pioneer days of Wisconsin commerce went by two routes. The least important was through Milwaukee and down the lakes. The other, like the ore trade of southwestern Wisconsin was sent down the Mississippi to St. Louis and New Orleans. In the end due to the railronds the eastern route triumphed, and the trade of Wisconsin was gradually diverted to Lake Michigan ports.

These Mississippi river steamboats —side-wheelers and stern-wheelers —played an important part in the settlement of western Wisconsin. They brought settlers from the south to the ore fields. For years these passengers coming to Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, "constituted during the fifties and sixties one of the largest and surest sources of profit.

"The better class packets were referred to in the newspaper notices of th day as 'floating palaces' and such in fact some of them were," declares an old account. "To the simple westerner, accustomed to the wild life of the frontier, they represented th height of magnificencen and in particular their sumptuous bills of fare filled with delightful amazement."

Got High Wages.

The river pilots of those days were an interesting class. They possessed a minute knowledge of the river —its crooks, turns and sandbars. According to Mr. Merrick their wages were often higher than those of the captain over them. Many of the pilots prior to the Civil war, commanded $300 to $500 a month. A few of the "lightning pilots" running between St. Louis and St. Paul received as high as $800 a month.

But the profits of the steambot companies were commensurate Their earnings were large; freight charges were high. The profits on a single trip were sometimes sufficient to pay the cost of a new boat. The net profits of La Crosse & St. Paul Packet company, one of the most prominent on the upper river, were, according to its secretary a trifle over $249,000 for the season 1865. This earning was in excess of the capital stock of the company, according to a statement in the La Crosse Democrat in January, 1866. The "Burlington," the smallest sidewheeler of the Northern Line Packet company, represented an investment of $30,000 and in the year 1866 had a net income of $70,000.

During the Civil War days, the idea of having packets haul barges of grain and other commodities to market was conceived. It was one of the most important and economical uses to which steam boat transportation was placed. Wisconsin and Minnesota were growing. This new plan furnished a cheaper means of transportation to the increasing products of the upper Mississippi valley. The packet trade increased enormously at the close of the Civil war. One company alone owned one hundred of these new carriers, "the total grain capacity of which was 325,000 bushels." Originally a packet would draw three or four barges, but competition increased and finally seven or eight were hauled. In the early seventies it was not uncommon to see one of the boats on the "Diamond Joe" line draw a fleet of barges carrying 100,000 bushels of grain.

Companies in Combine.

To keep pace with competition there was a gradual merging of the river steamboat interests until thre companies finally controlled most of the river traffic. Then in 1866 the consolidation was reposed in one concern. The Northwestern Union Packet company.

In spite of all that could be done, however, the railroads sounded the knell for Mississippi river tansportation. In 1854 the first railroad line from Lake Michigan reached the Mississippi river at Rock Island. Others tapped the Mississippi at points in Wisconsin and Illinois within a few years. Prairie du Chien was reached in 1857. The Milwaukee &St. Paul reached St. Paul in 1867 and Winona, Minn., in 1871. Each of these points had been a source of nouishment to the steamship lines. The railroads dverted a large grain trade away from the river ad sent it through Wisconsin Lake Michigan ports down the lakes and through the Erie canal.

"For a number of years the competition of the railroads did not decrease the steamship commerce of the upper river," says E. R. Merk. "On the contrary the packets were never more busily and profitably employed than during the years between 1855 and 1865. Railroads were few and far between; they penetrated only the comparatively well-settled country. The newer regions about the headwaters of the Mississippi were still obliged to rel ychiefly upon steamboats for the transportation of their surplus

Big Change Occurs.

"A notable change had taken place, however, in the character of the packet commerce. It no longer descended the river to St. Louis and New Orleans as formerly, but a large part was deflected at the railroad terminals. Steamboats gathered their cargoes at St. Paul, Hudson, Red Wing, Winona and a dozen other river landings, only to deliver their accumulated burdens to the waiting cars at La Crosse, Prairie du Chien, and Dunleith. The river was employed merely to gather up, as the agent of the railroads, the surplus of the upper country and to distribute, as the agent of the railroads, the supplies which the latter brought from the East. It had become but a feeder, subsidary to rival trade courses.

"A prospect for the revival of the river traffic seemed to be held out during the later sixties by the rapid development of barge and two-boat transportation. St. Louis, in particular, was sanguine of regaining thereby her lost trade with the upper river. She set out in this hope to improve her facilities for handling bulk grain, erecting elevators for the first time and establishing a regular barge line to New Orleans. Her efforts attracted considerable attention in the upper valley, especially in 1869, when hard times and the low price of wheat forced that region to look about for cheaper avenues to market. However, the advantages of the northern highways were not easy to overcome, and the railroads running between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi promptly cutting their rates in half. The commercial centers on the Great Lakes likewise jealously guarded their new accessions.

An Erroneous Idea.

"They diligently spread the impression, erroneous though effective, that wheat sent to market via the southern route would heat and spoil owing to the humidity and high temperatures prevailing in the zone of the Gulf. Thus promptly were the advantages of barge transportation met and neutralized.

"The first railroad whistle heard within the precincts of St. Paul sounded the doom of the waning river commerce. At the very outset the rich passenger traffic, later the general merchandise trade and eventually the bulky grain, passed to the new highways. After 1867 even barges declined in number, and their activities outlived those of the steamboats only a few years."

Voice of the People

OWNERS OF UTILITIES

To the Editor of The Capital Times:

I am under the impression that many people in Madison, particularly those supposed to be well inforced, consider that if the Madison Gas and Electric company and the street car company are taken over by the city that local people who are interested by their stock investment therein would suffer. People seem to be under the impression that these concerns are largely owned by local people, and can mention the names of men in local businesses who are financially interested in the stock of the companies, but this was in the past history of Madison.

The annual report of these companies, filed with the railroad commission, is a public document, and open to inspection. I have seen it many times, and would suggest that you have it examined, and report through your paper who the actual owners are at the present time of each concern, and how much local capital is actually invested therein by local men. I feel sure it would have a salutary effect upon local opinion.

A Well-Wisher.

Editor's Note.—F. W. Montgomery is the sole stockholder of the Madison Street Railway company.

All of the stock of the Madison Gas and Electric company, with the exception of six shares, is held by A. P. Lathrop of New York, who represents the American Light and Traction company, of 126 Broadway. The remaining six shares are held by citizens of Madison in order to give a semblance of local ownership to the company. The following Madison men are directors of the Madison Gas and Electric company and in that capacity each hold one share of stock. They are: John Grinde, A. E. Proudfit, F. W. Hoyt, John St. John, John Corscot, C. F. Cooley.

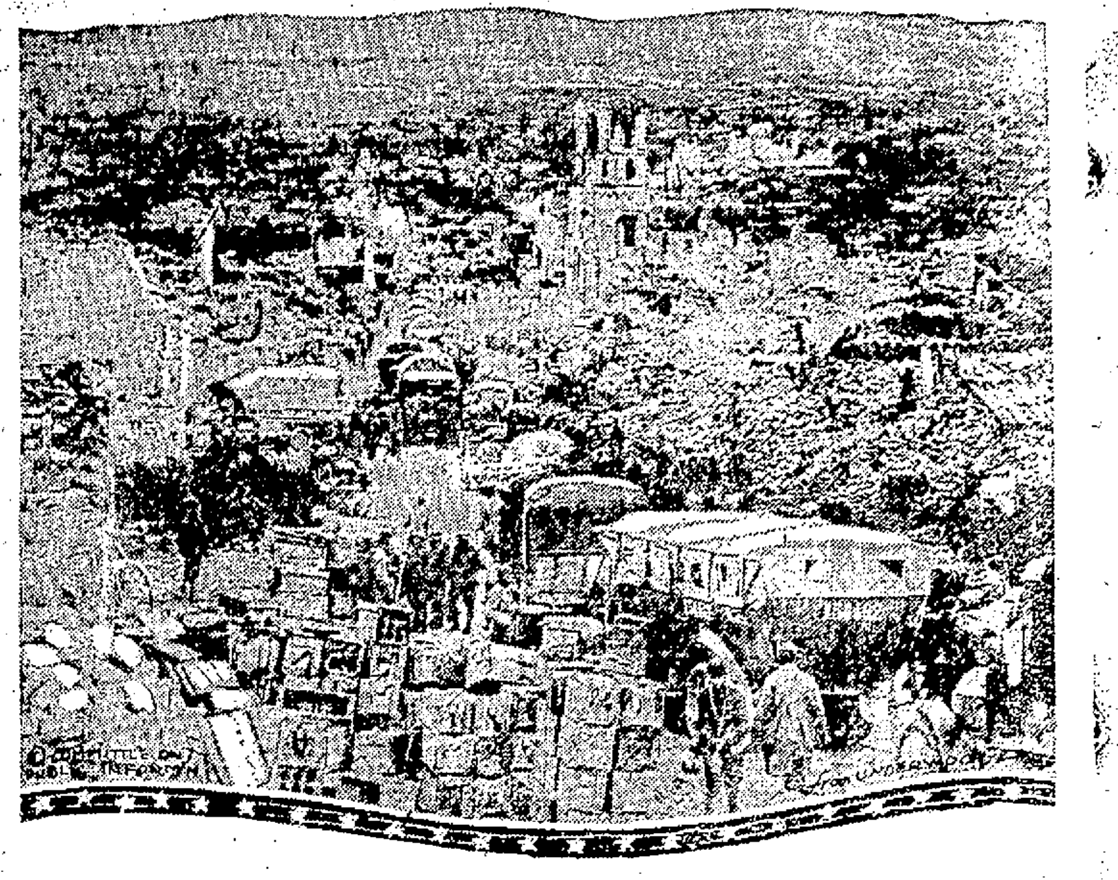
HOW AMERICA BACKED UP ITS BOYS



Stream of supplies pouring into Argonne section for the U. S. fighters there late in the war. Hill 304 is in the background.

One of the many remarkable accomplishments of America's war forces was the efficient way in which food and other supplies were kept up with the fighters. According to an official of the quartermaster's department not a U. S. soldier missed a meal because of lack of supplies. The picture shows immense quantities of supplies on the way to the American forces in the Argonne region.

State News

CONVENTION POSTPONED.

MILWAUKEE — The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association scheduled for Friday afternoon in the directors' room of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, was postponed in the interests of the public welfare, although the sanction of the health department had been given it as a business meeting. President John W. O'Leary of the National Metal Trades association and former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, was to have given the address at the dinner Friday night which was to wind up the annual meeting.

HORSE TRAINER DIES.

DELEVAN — William Holt, well known in the horse racing circles in the middle west, died at a local sanitarium after a short illness. Mr. Holt underwent an operation a week ago. He had been employed for many years in Janesville as a horse trainer and was a well known figure around the track of the driving park. A wife and eight children survive.

HELD ON U. S. CHARGE.

WAUSAU — Albert Reck, Wausau, arrested on a charge of uttering disloyal profane and abusive language about the flag of the United States, waived a preliminary examination and was held for trial in the federal court at Madison. Five thousand dollars bail was given. Peted Kieddrowski, Hatley, charged with impersonating a government officer also waived and gave bond for $2,500.00. He is also charged with persuading farmers to sell him cattle at a very low price claiming they were for the government.

"FLU" BAN ON.

WAUSAU — In order to prevent the spread of influenza the board of health, Wednesday, ordered the closing of all schools, lodges, churches, etc., and that all business places close at six o'clock each afternoon. This action was taken on recommendation of the County Medical association.

WOUNDED OVERSEAS.

FOND DU LAC — Dr. Henry S Beeson, a captain in the medical reserve corps, has been seriously wounded overseas according to word received by his wife who is at Medford. Capt. Beeson who is well known in Fond du Lac went into the service early in the spring but was promoted to Captain about nine months ago.

Henry Wehler, first class private in Co. B, 160 Machine Gun battalion was also seriously wounded in action, Sept. 11, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kilian Wehler.

TEACHER USES AUTO.

NEENAH — To aid her work of combating influenza among school children, Miss Sarah Connor, school nurse, has been given the use of an automobile by the school board.

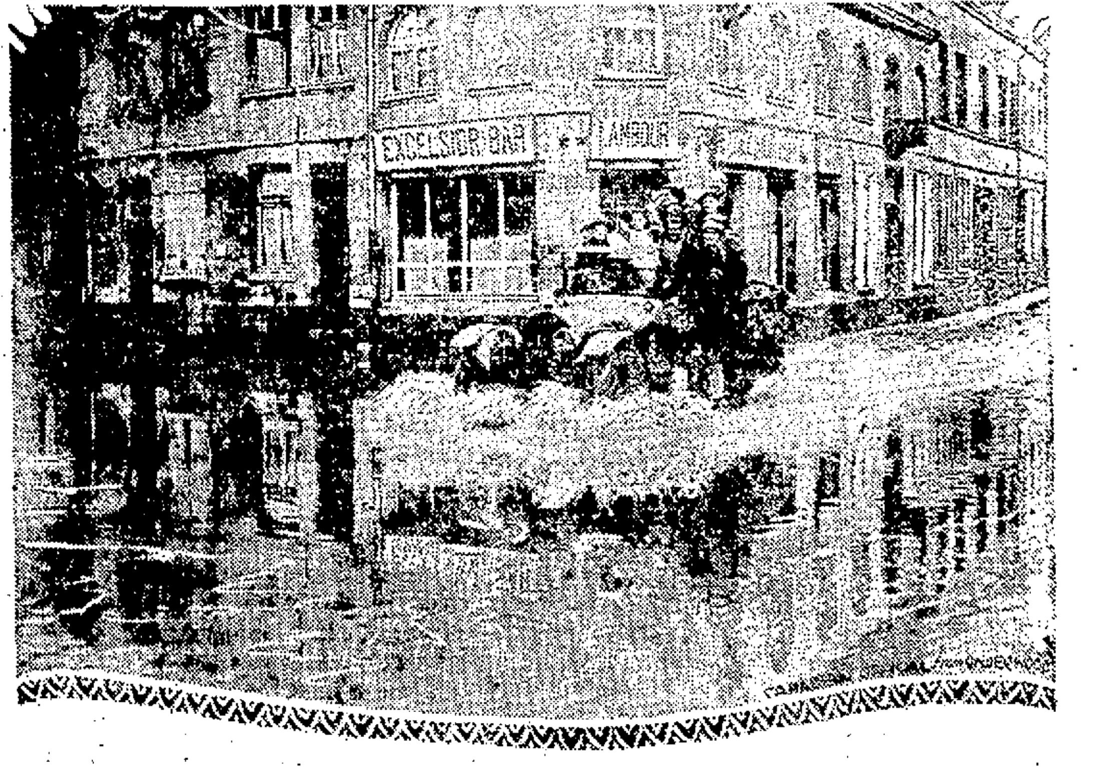
HOW REFUGEES RETURNED TO FLOODED HOMES IN VALENCIENNES



Refugees returning to Valenciennes through streets flooded in fighting fires started by Germans.

Thousands of residents of the territory invaded by the Germans during the war face years of struggle to rebuild and refurnish their homes, ruined by the enemy troops. But their cares were temporarily forgotten when they were able to return to their homes. The picture shows a load of refugees being brought back to their homes in Valenciennes, when that city was liberated from the clutches of the Germans by the Canadian forces. The city was flooded with water used in fighting fires started by the foe, but even this didn't halt their joy.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the harl so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

HIRST HITS NEW ANGLE ON STATE ROADS

Highway Engineer Urges Patrol; Speaks at Chicago Meeting

CHICAGO—(Dec. 11)—The keynote in laying stress on maintenance American Association of Public Highway Officials and the Highway Industries association was given in the address of A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer of Wisconsin, in urging the super-importance of patrol maintenance on a state trunk highway system. Mr. Hirst's paper was based in this year's experience in Wisconsin, and struck an original not n layng stress on mantenance rather than on construction.

"The states which are doing nothing to maintain through routes until they are permanently constructed are making a grave 'mistake," he said. "Much can be done with the most unpromising system of roads if maintenance funds are expended efficiently under the patrol system. It must be conceded that earth roads and the light types of temporary surfacings fail on certain occasions to give 100 per cent service every day in the year, but on a surprisingly large number of days, they can be made practically as good as any road. While they are not the ultimate, the man who waits for the ultimate is apt to find it on the other side of the Styx."

Hits New Angle.

Mr. Hirst's paper hit a new angle, and aroused much interest and discussion. He insisted that where insufficient funds were available for construction on a large scale, the state which wishes to do the most for its roads and for its people at once, can do it by expending its money largely on intelligent maintenance rather than in building a few miles of high class construction in isolated stretches. This is the policy that he said had been adopted for Wisconsin in the next few years, a policy which had been justified by the results secured in the patrol maintenance of the Wisconsin highways this year which he said had been improved as a whole 50 per cent. He summed up his conclusions as follows:

Eventually—Why Not Now?

"Eventually we must all build certain of our main highways of the highest type of construction. We must immediately construct in this manner certain stretches which cannot be maintained, so that they may bear the traffic which does or should use them, but the great mass of roads, even the most important roads, in the average state must wait several years before they can be rebuilt adequately. Why not recognize the fact and devote less state funds to construction and more to maintenance, not only of the inadequate road structures already built, but of the common earth roads as yet untouched."

HOLWAY HOPEFUL FOR STATE GUARDS

That the adjutant generals of the middle west will ask that the national defense act be so amended so as to provide for state guards as well as national guards is the belief of Adjutant general Orlando Holway, who returned from a meeting of these officials at St. Paul.

"It was the concensus of opinion among the adjutant generals meeting there that the state organizations should be preserved and that the national defense act should be broadened," said Adjutant General Holway today.

STREETS NOT TO BE ANTI-FLU FLUSHED

There will be no flushing of the streets at this time as a "flu" safeguard, Superintendent of streets George Sullivan, declared Thursday morning. Mr. Sullivan explained that the freezing of the water on the streets would not be desirable.

DREAM COMES TRUE IN FEDERAL COURT

The dream of the United States Marshal's office force for enlarged quarters is now being realized at the federal building. The entire suite of offices on the east side of the second floor will probably be turned over to the marshal's office work. This enlargement is made possible by the moving out of the internal revenue offices to the new Bank of Wisconsin building.

PHILIPP GETS ORDER TO LET S. A. T. C. MEN GO

Lack of Authority to Use Official Blanks Holds up Demobilization

The S. A. T. C. students at the University of Wisconsin will now be discharged. It became known Wednesday afternoon that the delay occasioned in allowing men to go was due to the fact that official blanks for their release had not been received at the University. The authorities here had a blank prepared which was approved by the central department but later the department at Washington declined to permit the use of the blanks. When this matter was called to the attention of Gov. E. L. Phillipp he wired Secretary of War Baker as follows:

"There are approximately twenty-five hundred S. A. T. C. men at the University of Wisconsin who have been physically examined for muster-out and lack only discharge papers. Blanks of army issue are not available. Major Holloway, commanding officer, on authority of federal committee on military training and education, had had discharge blanks printed, fac-similes of the army form, proof checked as correct by headquarters central department, but may not use them without authorization from your department.

University authorities have asked me to appeal to you for such telegraphic authorization. Influenza is epidemic in city and there is constant danger it may spread to cantonment notwithstanding all precautions. Majority of students anxious to return home and difficult of control. Daily federal expenditure of approximately six thousand dollars. Delay of more than 24 hours will necessitate medical re-examination of the great majority to be discharged."

This morning Gov. E. L. Philipp received the following telegram authorizing immediate discharge of S. A. T. C. men.

"Orders issued commanding general central department this date to authorize use of the discharge blanks at University of Wisconsin as requested period commanding officer students army training corps notified by wire."

Philomathia, Onowa, War Relief club and Madison high school Literary society had short programs.

Forum Debating society held a short business meeting at which the work on the constitution was completed. A membership committee was elected. This committee is composed of Chas. Demarest, chairman; Walter Kidder and Harold Cranefield. The president appointed the team captains for the following year. They are: Earl Gill, Robert Eddy, Bernard Monfried, Walter Kidder, Francis Lamb and Henry Blake. Teams were chosen and a debate is scheduled for the meeting, Jan. 9, between Lamb's team and Blake's team.

ACTOR TO PREACH

"Twenty Years on the Stage and Why I Left It" is the subject of an address to be delivered at the First Methodist church next Sunday night by George Preston, for twenty years a vaudeville actor.

This Easily is a Three-Day Picture — But We Didn't Know It

—HERE'S WHY—

Five different movie journals go into raptures over it. WID says: "I call this a bear of a picture" and the others say as much or more. It has an ALL STAR CAST—OLIVE TELL (she starred in "Hell With the Kaiser"), MARIE WAINWRIGHT, Wm. J. Kelly, John Daly Murphy and seven other stars.

IT IS A CROOK PLAY with a finish so surprising and unexpected and with so many clever turns that you simply can't for the life of you tell how it is going to end.

Kate Jordan wrote the story for Ainslee's Magazine. John Ince directed the picture, and when you see it you will agree that we were "asleep at the switch" when we didn't book it for a long run and advertise it like a circus. Come and see it today.

MOCKEY HELD ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Arraigned for Giving Whiskey to Middleton Boy; Main Cause of Death

John Mockey, or as he gives his name now, John Mokri, was arraigned Thursday evening in superior court on a charge of manslaughter. He is charged with having given the whiskey to 12-year-old Frank Macolee last Saturday, which was one of the main factors in the boy's death.

Mokri was brought before Judge A. C. Hoppmann late in the afternoon. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. Attorney C. B. Schein appeared as counsel for the defendant. He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff and placed under $5,000 bond. The case will be heard in superior court next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

PURE BRED SIRE WORKERS TO MEET

A campaign to retire the scrub sire from the herds of the state will start here Saturday with a meeting of the Wisconsin Pure Bred Sire committee.

The committee consists of Frank G. Swoboda, Langlade county, chairman, representing the stockmen and county agents of the state; Chris Schroeder, Racine county, secretary of the Wisconsin Holstein Breeders' association; A. J. McNab, Jackson county, secretary of the Wisconsin Ayrshire Breeders' association; R. E. Hibbard, Dane county, secretary of the Wisconsin Brown Swiss Breeders' association; Charles L. Hill, Fond du Lac county, secretary of the Western Guernsey Breeders' association; Charles A. Peterson, Fond du Lac county, secretary of the Wisconsin Jersey Breeders' association; John L. Tormey, Chicago, secretary of the Wisconsin Shorthorn Breeders' association; James G. Fuller, Dane county, secretary of the Wisconsin Aberdeen Angus Breeders' association; Clifford W. Thompson, Walworth county, secretary of the Wisconsin Hereford Breeders' association; Walter L. Houser, Buffalo county, and A. W. Hopkins and Raymond Baker, Dane county, representatives of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association; G. C. Humphrey of the college of agriculture; J. F. Shaw, editor of the Equity News and E. R. McIntyre, editor of the Wisconsin Farmer.

RACINE WATER AWARD UPHELD

The new evidence just taken in the trial of the Racine Water Works purchase case before Judge Stevens was remanded to the railroad commission for further findings and consideration, and the commission has today filed with the circuit court its opinion after consideration of the new evidence.

The main contention of the company was that the value of the property had vastly increased since the date of the award in April, 1917 because of the high unit costs now prevailing. The original award of the commission is upheld today by the commission except for some modifications due to omissions from the inventory in the original case.

AT THE THEATRES

FULLER

Tonight at the Fuller "Hamlet" will be offered by John E. Kellerd and company. At the Saturday matinee, Mr. Kellerd will present "The Merchant of Venice" and Saturday night "Macbeth."

"Missing"

J. Stuart Blackton's photo-drama, "Missing" will be the offering at the Fuller, Sunday afternoon and night, and on Monday drama will hold forth with the offering of "Seven Days' Leave," the melo-drama which has proven so successful in England as well as America.

"Camp Grant Boys"

A vaudeville bill composed of the pick of the professional talent located at Camp Grant, will be at the Fuller, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week.

STRAND

The face of Lila Lee is a new and charming addition to the films. "The Cruise of the Make-Believes" is her first Paramount picture and is presented at the New Strand theatre today. "The Cruise of the Make-Believes" is a beautiful story. The story has to do with little Bessie Meggison, who lives on Arcadia street, in the poorer section of New York.

ORPHEUM

A good bill opened at the Orpheum Thursday night, featuring two headliners. The Primrose Four, in their 1,000 pounds of harmony, claimed the greatest applause of the evening. The Amoros sisters, French girls, presented a high class, clever, artistic act of singing, dancing, and muscular feats.

The sketch, "Mr. Chaperon," presented by Hal Johnson and company, was full of laughs and merriment and was well received by the audience. The sketch was interspersed with singing.

Sam and Ada Beverly in mirthful moments of musical comedy made a hit with their farce productions.

Joe Barton as the silent tramp, speaking never a word, but performing some new and good feats on the wheel, was also popular. The Allies' official war pictures, which opened the bill, were interesting as ever.

GRAND

"Secret Strings" featuring Olive Tell, Marie Wainwright, John Daly Murphy, and other stars is the attraction at the Grand today. "Secret Strings" is a mystery picture full of unexpected turns. In its original form it appeared in Ainslee's Magazine and later was used on the stage by Lou Tellegen.

BOXES TUMBLE EVERY WAY BUT SHOW NO BUNGED UP CORNERS

A demonstration of shipping box construction designed to prevent loss of goods through breakage and to economize lumber and car space was made this week for a large delegation from a Chicago mail goods firm, who visited the Forest Products laboratory at Madison to learn the peace-time application of the study of shipping packages carried on for the government during the war.

The test was made by placing boxes of varying sizes and kinds in the box-testing machines invented at the laboratory. The machines tumble the boxes about so that they are subjected to drops, wrenches, and other strains identical with those experienced in actual freight transportation.

In reducing losses by breakage, demands upon cargo space, and cost of construction for packages sent overseas by the government during the war, the Forest Products laboratory, maintained by the United States Forest Service, in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin, achieved important results. The savings effected ran into millions of dollars, it is said. Commercial firms are now taking notice of these results, and seeking to effect similar savings. Railroads are also interested in well-constructed packages which reduce claims for goods damaged or wrecked in transit.

The resistance of the box to rough usage was affected by the location of the straps. If placed at the ends of the boxes, their efficiency is less than half what may be obtained if placed a few inches from the end. The exact distances affording best results are determined by experiments.

Y. M. C. A. HUT USED AS BOYS' CAMP

Small boys of Madison and vicinity will profit by the Y. M. C. A. army hut at Camp Randall next summer if present plans are carried out.

F. E. Wolf, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has an option on the building, and if he is successful in obtaining it, the hut will be moved from its present location after it is no longer needed for the S. A. T. C. to some place on the shore of one of the lakes where a boys' summer camp will be established.

According to present plans, a different group of boys will be taken to the camp every two weeks. There they will in charge of university men who have volunteered to help with the work.

Dreadnaught Squadrons Also to Reach New York About Dec. 23

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Every capital ship of the American navy now in Europe, including the dreadnaught squadrons which have been operating with the British main fleet during the war, will return to home waters this month, Secy. Daniels announced today. They may be expected to reach New York about Dec. 23 and a naval review will take place there to celebrate the homecoming.

Instructions have been cabled to Admiral Mayo, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet and now at Brest to bring back every naval vessel that can be spared. Many destroyers, converted yachts and other craft probably will come with the bigger ships.

The dreadnaughts ordered to return are division No. 6, commanded by Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, battleships New York, flagship Texas, Wyoming, Florida, Alabama and Nevada; division No. 9, commanded by Rear Admiral Thomas S Rogers, battleship Utah, flagships Oklahoma and Arizona.

CHILE AND PERU LIKE U. S. NOTE

Reply in Friendly Tones to Offer of Aid in Adjusting Controversy

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Chile and Peru have replied in friendly tones to the identic note of the United States urging upon them the supreme importance of adjusting amicably their controversy over the provinces of Tacna and Arica and tendering the aid of the United States alone or in conjunction with other American states.

Peru indicated a wish that the good offices of the United States might be employed to bring about a settlement, while the Chilean government contented itself with expressing appreciation of the spirit of the offer.

Acting Secretary Polk made public at the state department Thursday the text of the note handed to Chile and Peru presidents informing them that the United States "stands ready to tender alone, or in conjunction with other countries of this hemisphere, all possible assistance to bring an equitable solution."

The note said the United States viewed the severance of consular relations between the two governments with the gravest apprehension, particularly on the eve of Paris peace conferences "in which it is confidently expected that steps will be taken to provide for an era of lasting peace among all peoples."

"Y" PLANS WORK FOR NEW TERM

Frederick E. Wolf, general secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., briefly outlined the scope of the work for the association the coming school year to 18 young men at a supper in the Y dining room last evening. The program of service will be carried out as usual by the students themselves working at the heads of various committees, these committees reaching out and touching every student possible.

Trains will be met, and the baggage of the incoming students cared for upon their arrival in Madison next term.

On Thursday evening, January 2, at 6 o'clock, the Y. M. C. A. opening banquet will be held in the Y parlors. Mr. A. J. Elliott, of Chicago, will be the principal speaker, and the cabinet will present its policies during the evening. Preparations will be made for 250 men, and tickets are being distributed by the cabinet members to the men on their committees and to other students interested in the work of the Y. This will mark the beginning of activities, and a year of unlimited service is eagerly looked forward to.

LIEUT. AVERY, '17, DIES OF FLU ON SUPPLY SHIP

Lieut. Herbert L. Avery, '17, U. S. N. R. F., died Nov. 12 of influenza on board the U. S. S. Hubbard, according to a message received yesterday from Mrs. A. B. Avery, Shreveport, La.

Lieut. Avery completed the course in electrical engineering last June and shortly after enlisted in the navy, being called to the training station at Pelham Bay, Sept. 1, 1917. He was advanced to the rank of ensign in December of the same year. In June, 1918 he was made assistant navigating officer on the supply ship Sudberry, and later transferred to the U. S. S. Hubbard with the rank of lieutenant.

He is a member of the Chi Phi fraternity.

2,600 LIVES IS MONTH'S FLU TOLL IN STATE

October Figures Show Mortality Rate Greatly Increased

Deaths from influenza in Wisconsin reported for October, 1918, were 2,091, and from pneumonia 525. Many deaths reported due to influenza undoubtedly were resulting pneumonias.

In September, preceding, influenza deaths numbered 55 and pneumonias 109. In October, 1917, influenzas claimed only 9, and pneumonia 154.

Is Worst In History

These are the first statistics for a given period in the epidemic to be tabulated by the state bureau of vital statistics. They brand this epidemic as the most destructive scourge in the history of the state, as it has proven for the country as a whole.

Total deaths from all causes last October were 4,660. This compared with 1,017 for the month preceding, and with 2,040 for October last year.

The number of deaths from puerperal septicemia, as well as premature births and stillbirths, rose perceptibly during October, indicating the susceptibilty to the infection of many women of child-bearing age.

Figures for Leading Cities

SOLDIER IS WITNESS IN BERGER TRIAL

Attorney Henry Cochems, Milwaukee, made a two hours' opening statement to the jury in behalf of Berger in which he sketched the life of Berger from the time he came to this country down to his election to congress from the Fifth congressional district.

He pictured Berger as a man of influence in Milwaukee, a thinker, economist and a philosopher. He said that Milwaukee had met every war time requirement of the government, that Berger bought War stamps, and that War stamps were sold in the office of the Leader.

Praise for Milwauke

Attorney Cochems described Milwaukee as the quiestest and most orderly town in America and said that when Berger used the expression "war fans" in his newspaper it was not to ridicule supporters of the war, but referred to the "crazy men" who appealed to Gov. Philipp and President Wilson to place Milwaukee under martial law because they said the Germans planned a revolt against this country.

Cochems said the defense would rebut sharply the charge that Berger was a man of pro-German tendencies and said that evidence would be produced to show that Berrger had consistently assailed the kaiser and the German junkers in the columns of his newspaper from the first hours of the war down to the present time.

Are Not I. W. W.'s

He said that the I. W. W.'s are no socialists and that the socialists have nothing in common with them. He declared that the defense would prove that there has been constant opposition all through Berger's life to sabotage, violenge and destruction and that Berger, when pictured in his true light, must be accepted as a canstructive socialist. He said the red flag of socialism stands for idealism.

Attorney Cochems said evidence would be produced to show that Berger never heard Kruse speak until he met him in Judge Landis' courtroom, and that he met the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, also a co-defendant, only once or twice, and that Tucker and Berger entertained very different views. He said that it would be proved that Berger never entered into the conspiracy with which he is charged.

Right of Free Speech

Berger claimed no unbridled or unfettered right of free speech, he said, but did claim the constitutional right of free speech according to the free men. When this is taken away "liberty is dead in our midst," he declared.

"The rule of law here must be the rule of decent justice," said Attorney Cochems. "As white men with a conscience, you must demand clear proof of a conspiracy. Let us have no yellow verdict."

Sleuth's Eyes Fixed On "Bill"

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON—Several score of detectives, the pick of former Emperor William's force of sleuths at Potsdam, are staying at Amerongen, shadowing every movement of Herr Hohenzollern, according to the Amerongen correspondent of the Express, who claims to have talked with some of these men. Herr Hohenzollern is said to be in constant dread of bomb throwers and other assassins and always carries a small revolver.

The former emperor's suite and detectives have added at least 100 to the population of the village of Amerongen, the correspondent states.

WILSON ON WAY TO PARIS FROM BREST

same auspices today you bring to the tormented soil of Europe the comfort of your authorized voice in the debates which will calm our quarrels.

"Mr. President, upon this Breton soil our hearts are unanimous in saluting you as the messenger of justice and peace. Tomorrow it will be our entire nation which will acclaim you and our whole people will thrill with enthusiasm over the eminent statesman who is the champion of their aspirations toward justice and liberty.

"This old Breton city has the honor of first saluting you. In order to perpetuate this honor to our descendants, the municipal council has asked me to present you with an address expressing their joy at being privileged to incline themselves before the illustrious democrat who presides over the destinies of the great republic of the United States."

Long Live Wilson

The mayor then presented the engrossed address of the council, which said in part:

"Being the first to welcome the president of the United States to France we respectfully salute the eminent statesman who so nobly personifies the ideals of liberty and the rights of man. In order to perpetuate this event through ages we direct that these proceedings be deposited in the city archives. Long live Pres. Wilson! Long live the champion and apostle of international justice!"

Daughter Meets President

The French minister and American officials boarded the George Washington at 1:30. They were accompanied by Miss Margaret Wilson. As soon as they had gone aboard the George Washington preparations began for the president's landing. About 50 American and French warships were in the roadstead.

Within the harbor there is a scene of animation. With the first break of day fleets of warships and merchant craft broke out their colors and dressed their ships with long lines of steamers. A group of French cruisers in their war paint, swung at anchorage with a score of French destroyers about them. Near at hand loomed the big liner La France, used as a hospital ship but was to resume her trans-Atlantic service. American destroyers, naval yachts and small craft glided about the harbor further off alongside great flotilas of merchant ships, freighters and quaint Breton fishing craft. Two American freighters were still unloading army supplies here and an American transport was preparing to take more American troops homeward. It was a scene stirring with activity and one which glowed with color as by a touch of sunlight.

City Mass of Bunting.

The whole city is a mass of bunting with Place President Wilson hung with streamers and mottoes. The entire presidential route is lined with Venetian masts, flags and transparencies.

A special train bearing Stephen Pichon, the French foreign minister; Georges Leygues, the minister of marine, and other distinguished officials, officers of the army and navy and the foreign committee of the chamber of deputies arrived this morning and another train brought American Ambassador Sharp, Col. E. M. House, Gen. Pershing, Gen. Bliss, Admiral Benson and other prominent Americans.

London Labor Greets Wilson
(By the Associated Press)

LONDON (Thursday)— Charles W. Bowerman, secretary of the trades union congress and Arthur Henderson, secretary of the labor party, have signed a message "on behalf of five million workers" to Pres. Wilson, associating themselves with their "French comrades in welcoming Pres. Wilson to Europe."

Commenting on the approaching arrival of Pres. Wilson in France the Pall Mall Gazette says:

"Mr. Wilson will at last have an opportunity to see for himself, the havoc wrought by the Germans in France and Belgium and from personal conferences be able to understand the point of view of those who suffered from these infamous depredations.

"Pres. Wilson has a judicial mind. No living statesman is better able to weigh evidence or more ready to face facts with courage and determination. Too much has been made of the letter of Mr. Wilson's '14 points' and too little of their spirit. His reference to freedom of the seas, for instance, has caused much discussion. As Mr. Lloyd George pointed out yesterday, our navy is a weapon, not of offense but of defense, and we do not mean to give it up.

CIVIC PLAN COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

Fifteen Men Head Different Lines for Betterment of City's Interests

The civic plan committee of the Association of Commerce has just completed its organization and is now prepared to make detailed study of the fifteen or more topics assigned for consideration by Chr. George J. Eberle.

Fifteen men will compose the committee and each member of the committee will act as sub-chairman for the consideration of the topic assigned to him. Each sub-chairman will select a committee of five to work with him on his work and these committees will meet for detailed study of their particular problems before final action is taken by the general committee. At the meetings of the sub-committees those especially interested will be invited to attend and offer their suggestions on the best way to work out the particular subjects. These meetings will be open to all citizens of Madison.

Committees Named

The tentative committees on topics of the general civic plan committee, are as follows: street, L. H. Smith; industrial housing, Paul E. Stark; suburban development, S. C. Hanks; parks and playgrounds, E. N. Warner; zoning, C. B. Chapman; labor and city planning, J. H. Brown; organization and functions of a city plan commission, Mayor George C. Sayle; internal transportation, Ross W. Harris; financing the city plan, George J. Eberle; legislation on city planning, Assemblyman Marcus Johnson; special assessment, Ald. Herman Steffens; lake shore development, H. J. Loftsgordon; external transportation, railroad tracks and terminals, A. X. Marx; public utilities, outside of street railways, Burt Williams.

It is expected that three months will be taken up in the consideration of all of these subjects and the general chairman has prepared bibliographies of these subjects for use of the sub-chairmen and their committees. Each sub-chairman will appoint his own committee, but those desiring to serve in the interest of the future development of Madison should get in touch with the secretary at the offices of the Association of Commerce, as all committee quotas have not been filled as yet.

Suggestions Wanted

Suggestions from interested citizens are greatly desired by the chairman as the plan contemplates securing the interest of everyone in Madison. This study differs in many respects from other studies made in other cities in that all of the work is going to be done locally, without expense for outside help, and all of the people of Madison are to be given an opportunity to voice their sentiments in definite constructive planning for the future development of our city.

FORMAL ACTION ON RAILROAD CONTROL BEGINS

House Interstate Commerce Commission Considers Proposition

WASHINGTON — Congressional consideration of railroad legislation requested by Pres. Wilson in his address to congress just before leaving for the peace conference, was begun today with a meeting of the house interstate commerce commission.

While the railroad problem has been discussed on the floor of both the senate and the house, the meeting of the house committee today was the first formal action to be taken since the president made his request.

It was expected that the committee would consider the recommendation of Dir. Gen. McAdoo that government control of the railroads be extended until Jan. 1, 1924.

STREETS NOT TO BE ANTI-FLU FLUSHED

There will be no flushing of the streets at this time as a "flu" safeguard, Superintendent of streets George Sullivan, declared Thursday morning. Mr. Sullivan explained that the freezing of the water on the streets would not be desirable.

MARKETS

NEW YORK—The stock market today drifted aimlessly after the first half hour, dealings being accentuated by frequent pauses. Almost 50 percent of the forenoon's light trading consisted of United States Steel, Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum and Marine preferred. Changes in these varied issues were decidedly confusing. Obscure specialties made irregular advances while General Electric, Pullman and local tractions were heavy. Bonds of the latter group showed increased weakness. Rails, shippings and steels displayed better tendencies at midday, infusing steadiness to the general list.

Transportation and kindred issues including shippings and equipments registered further moderate losses at the opening of today's stock market on further selling attributed to the administration's attitude towards the railroads. Reactions among leaders were confined to substantial fractions. Oils and motors were very irregular, Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker gaining a point each, while Texas company and Stutz yielded about as much. Changes before the end of the first half hour indicated further uncertainty on a reduced volume of dealings.

American Telephone and Consolidated Gas were unfavorably affected by the weakness of other utilities and coppers and oils reacted 1 to 3 points on small offerings but rails and shippings, motors and fertilizers made nominal gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO — Unfavorable weather had a strengthening influenze today on t ehcorn market. The conditions were such as were likely to retard the movement of grain. Bulls continued to make capital of the fact that the estimated yield is far below the average domestic consumption. Opening prices which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1¼ cent higher with January 1.36⅛ to 1.36⅝ and May 1.35 to 1.36 were followed by moderate general gains and then something of a reaction.

Oats paralleled the action of corn. Slowness of domestic shipping demand, however, tended to check upturns. After opening unchanged to ⅜ cents higher with January 73⅛ to 73¾, the market hardened further and then underwent a sag.

Before the day was ended the market went materially above the crest of the bulge which yesterday resulted from the government crop report. Increased rural buying accompanied the fresh advance. Prices closed unsettled 1⅝ to 3½ cents net higher with January 188¼ to ½ and May 138⅜ to ½.

Weakness in the hog market operated as a weight on provisions.

Later the market rallied owing to the decided upturn in corn.

RANDALL PUPILS HAVE LARGE CHORUS

The Randall school chorus, consisting of 125 children's voices, is practicing daily for the community Christmas tree celebration to be held in the Tenth ward, Christmas eve.

The chorus is divided into groups of 25 each with a student captain at the head of each group. Another group of parents and older people of the community are to assist the chorus in the carolling.

Prof. E. B. Gordon is directing the chorus organization. Miss Jasperson, school musical director, is in charge of the daily training.

MAKE PROM PLANS NEXT QUARTER

Plans for the junior prom will have to be held over until next quarter when the regular meeting of the class will be held and officers, including prom chairman, will be elected.

The consent of the faculty for holding the prom has already been given, and, aside from the actual management of the affair, the principal matter to be settled is whether or not it will be a strictly junior dance or an all-university event.

BOLSHEVISM IN RUSSIA SHOULD END

—MORGENTHAU

Ambassador From Turkey Addresses University Convocation

MESSAGE FROM JEWS

Says Brotherly Care for Liberated People of Palestine, is Need

"Annihilate Bolshevism" was the keynote of an address delivered by Ambassador Henry Morgenthau, speaking at a meeting in the gymnasium Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the League to Enforce Peace.

"We must marshal all of our resources for a crusade into Russia to annihilate Bolshevism," declared the ambassador. He emphasized his position on the question of Russian invasion by saying that the great resources of America when brought to the aid made the power of the allies irresistible. He advocated bringing this full power for a smashing blow against the Russian people.

"It was a pitiable thing to sit in Constantinople and see how the Germans had planned to strangle Russia," Mr. Morgenthau said.

Turkey Was Empty Shell

"Turkey was an empty shell. They are receiving the just punishment for their crimes. All ambition for betterment of the population had been taken away by the rapacious tax gatherers. As soon as a man raised a little more farm produce, up went his taxes.

"Turkey must be dismembered. The Christian world would be cold hearted indeed if they permitted the Mohammedan to continue in power. Palestine has been in their grip for 450 years, but today it is a free land.

"The Turks were originally a gang of robbers. They fastened themselves upon eastern Europe in 1459, and have checked civilization ever since.

Urges League of Nations.

"We must establish world peace by an organization that will insure us against a recurrence of Prussia's brute force. We must not give up until the Krupp works at Essen are converted into agricultural implement factories."

Mr. Morgenthau addressed the University Menorah society Thursday afternoon.

He spoke in part as follows:

"The Jews are never going to be given exclusive rights over Palestine. All that they can expect is equal rights with the other inhabitants. If they could by any accident get possession of this country, it would be an atrocity. I prophesy that if this did happen within ten years there would be serious difficulties."

Proud of Equal Rights

Mr. Morgenthau visited Palestine before the war began. In Palestine, he said, there were 60,000 Jews who were proud and happy to live because they had equal rights. They had their own self-government in each community, were prosperous, and lived peaceably. One colony boasted of not having a single law suit in seven years.

Although there were ten times as many Arabs as Jews, the Arabs were willing to give the Jews the right to govern their own communities. However, if the Arabs felt that they were to be dominated by the Jews the situation would be reversed.

Happy With 25 Cents a Day

"The Jews in Palestine are the same as they were 2,500 years ago. They are more than happy if they earn 25 cents a day," said Mr. Morgenthau.

"The Jews in Constantinople live huddled together in the Ghetto. Many of them sleep on the floor. The entire personal belongings of one family, in many cases, could be put into a small wooden case.

"I believe that it is a mistaken impression that all Jews should return to Palestine. The three million Jews in this country are prosperous and have great advantages. The Jews from the United States and the ten million Jews of Europe could never be taken care of in Palestine. Moreover, the Jews from Roumania, Poland, Galicia, and Roumania do not wish to leave their homes although now many of them are in desperate straits. We are all more hopeful for their future.

Exert Brotherly Care

"Thanksgiving day, Pres. Wilson assured me that America would stand for universal rights and the abolition of religious restriction at the peace conference.

"The duty of the Zionists now is to bury all difficulties among themselves and exert brotherly care for the members of the race who are less fortunate than they. If the Zionists want to kill off anti-Semitism it must first bury all antagonism existing among its own members. There must be democracy among all the Jews."

President of the State Union is Named in New Position

FULLER AGAIN V. P.

Clemmons and Hendrickson

Elected Directors; Convention Closed

J. N. Tittemore, president of the Wisconsin State union, was last night elected national president of the American Society of Equity. With the election of officers the convention came to a close.

H. A. Fuller, Mankato, Minn., was reelected as the vice president; James Clemmons, Union Grove, was named a director for the three year term to succeed M. P. Johnson of North Dakota, while H. A. Hendrickson, Waterville, Ia., was elected a director to succeed A. J. Johnson, Calamus, Ia.

On the informal ballot Mr. Tittemore received 53 of the 73 votes cast. Sixteen votes were cast for J. D. Beck and 4 for the retiring president, D. O. Mahoney. Mr. Mr. Fuller defeated L. W. Sammelson of Minnesota for vice president by a vote of 40 to 32.

J. Weller Long will be reelected as the secretary of the national organization.

A program embodying the views of the Equity society on the subject of reconstruction was adopted last night. This program will come up at a meeting of representatives of farmers' organizations to be held in Washington in January. Judge Mahoney was elected as a delegate to represent the organization at that conference.

At yesterday's session resolutions to a large extent similar to those adopted at the state convention were adopted. The convention went on record in favor of a resolution against militarism, mob violence, for the granting of a new trial to Mooney, for woman suffrage and for changes in rural education in the state.

Mr. Tittemore will institute a vigorous campaign for organization work in new states. During his presidency of the Wisconsin organization membership has been greatly increased.

Sheboygan Appeals to Cooks Not to Use Them for 10 Days

(By the Associated Press)

SHEBOYGAN — Twenty-two organizations of Sheboygan headed by the county council of defense and including three hotels, other eating places and various societies have made an appeal to the conscientious cooperation of every housewife in Sheboygan to not buy eggs and butter for the next ten days, with a view of finding out if the increase in high prices are due to high price of labor and scarcity of feed or profiteering.

Home Dinners Brought Cheer to Soldiers' Lives

Hundreds of home dinners have been given to soldiers in training in Madison through the hospitality committee of the War Camp Community service and its predecessor, the recreation committee of the county council of defense, whose work is ended when the S. A. T. C. leaves the city, according to Mrs. Burr W. Jones, who was chairman of both committees.

On Thanksgiving day alone nearly 700 men were invited into Madison homes for dinner and every Sunday until the influenza epidemic, from 70 to 100 men were entertained through these committees which have been establishing cordial social relations between citizens and soldiers ever since the first vocational training men arrived last April.

Until the S. A. T. C. was organized here last October, the recreation committee of the county council of defense arranged for the entertainment of the men, and since then has been doing its work as a committee of the War Camp Community service.

Mishaps Avoided.

Embarassments and mishaps were avoided, and the invitation an entertainment made as personal and informal as possible by the system which was devised to bring the hostesses into touch with their guests.

A cordial invitation was posted in each barrack asking every man who wished to meet Madison people to sign his name, company number, home town, church affiliation, if any, and even the name of a friend with whom he would like to go. The lists were collected every Thursday morning, the names sorted, then turned over to the women who had charge of the hostesses' side.

The official food advisor of each of the city's 32 churches was asked to receive all invitations from members and friends, and to confer with the representatives of the other churches. These women took into consideration the information given by the soldiers, and assigned them to the most congenial homes for entertainment, thus doing away with the haphazard effect of ordinary wholesale hospitality.

Soldiers Called Hostess.

At once a personal invitation was written to the soldier and delivered at his barrack, asking him to communicate with his hostess so that neither should be disappointed.

No complaints have been heard, either from the soldiers, that they were not welcomed most cordially, or from the hostesses, that their efforts were not received with the greatest courtesy and appreciation.

In cases where for any reason home invitations could not be secured for all the men, the Madison club has gladly and generously entertained them.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Provost Marshal General Crowder has instructed draft boards to complete their work of classifying registrants from 18 to 36 years as quickly as possible, and to classify none whose questionnaire is received after Dec. 21.

Registrants of this class who do not return their questionnaires will be classed as delinquents subject to prosecution in the civil courts as well as to induction into the army.

PLAN SONGFEST IN MUSIC HALL

Glee Clubs, Choral Union, and Orchestra to Participate

A community Yuletide festival of song is being arranged by Prof. L. W. Jones, of the School of Music, for Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p. m. in Music hall. The new institution is expected to become so popular that it will develop into an established custom at the university.

Other universities and colleges have had this custom for many years and it has helped to promote the spirit of good-fellowship at the Christmas season. It is hoped by the music school that the faculty and students will cooperate in making the Festival a success and that it will continue from year to year.

E. E. Swinney of the School of Music will be the baritone soloist, with Miss Lucile E. Campbell, also of the School of Music, as accompanist. Cooperating with them are the Madison Choral Union, Girls' Glee club, Men's Glee club, and the university orchestra.

The informal program is to consist of choruses of Christmas character and winter numbers by the Glee clubs. The solos will also be appropriate to the season. Carol singing by the combined choruses and audience is to be a large part of the program.

Everyone is invited to attend. Admission is free to all.

MAYOR WANTS COASTING HILLS: LACKS MONEY

City Council to Consider Policing Streets for Kiddies

One of the questions that is likely to be aired considerably at the meeting of the city council Friday evening is one involving city finances and coasting on unpoliced hills within the city. In so much as a Madison afternoon paper has accused Mayor Sayle of "not wanting the kiddies to have a chance to coast," and referred to the mayor as having "flopped" on the question, it is likely the mayor will make clear his position.

Mayor Sayle made it clear to the Capital Times representative that there has been no "flopping" on the matter. Here are the facts in the matter.

Coasting on unpoliced hills that cross intersecting streets is very dangerous.

Accidents are bound to occur unless the streets are properly flagged and have a police officer to guard them.

Several years ago the city undertook to set aside special coasting hills. When accidents took place on these hills the city was invariably sued for damages.

The city budget, which has just been made up, makes no provision for paying damages.

The city budget makes no provision for paying for extra police expenses, as would clearly be required if the city set aside streets for that purpose.

The mayor would be only too glad to have the children enjoy the coasting if the city council can be induced to appropriate the funds.

The fire department is always glad to flood fields that are suitable for skating, and they will continue this policy this winter at the request of Mayor Sayle. Fields must have some sort of an embankment around them to hold the water.

These are the facts as given out by Mayor Sayle.

POLICEMEN JOIN MONTREAL STRIKE

City Quiet After Night of Disorder; 1,500 City Employes Demand Raise

(By the Associated Press)

MONTREAL — Montreal was quiet today after a night of disorder growing out of the strike of 1,500 city employes for higher pay. While the efforts of Mayor Martin to effect a settlement last night failed, city officials were hopeful early today that the strikers would accept the offer of the trades and labor council to act as mediators in the dispute.

With all policemen and firemen joining the strikers, the city was helpless for a time last night, from the depredations of gangs of hoodlums, who looted stores, invaded theatres, robbed citizens and assaulted former volunteer firemen and private detectives. Various civic organizations formed bodies to safeguard the city's interests. One hundred young athletes of the Montreal Athletic association were armed with clubs and revolvers and given authority to arrest law breakers.

All large stores and mercantile establishments were closed early in the evening.

In addition to demands for increased wages the police call for the dismissal of the three [illegible] the department, while the [illegible] insist upon the double [illegible] tem.
